KIWANIS' LUNCH IS IMPRESSIVE TO GOVERNOR

Booster Organization Holds Meeting With Rotary and Exchange Clubs

Governor William D. Stephens of California was the guest of honor of the Glendale Kiwanis club yesterday noon at the club's regular weekly luncheon, held in the Broadway Inn. Several score Kiwanians and their guests—including a number of Rotarians and Exchanges—were audibly present, and if the governor didn't go away with the impression that Glendale is a live town, full of vim, vigor, and vitality, it certainly was not the fault of his hosts.

Chairman Lyman Clark of the Kiwanis club, presided. Governor Stephens spoke at length, admittedly covering the same ground he has often before covered in defense of the state highway commission via the condition of the highways and in defense of the greater state expenses on the grounds of the deflated value of the dollar. Glendale received its election praise-offerings in due volume.

International Meet Coming
Mr. McGee of the Los Angeles Kiwanis club urged the Glendale members to attend in force the banquet of the International Kiwanis organization at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles, the evening of Tuesday, August 29, when International President George H. Ross of Toronto, Canada, will be the guest of honor. Secretary Don Webb of the Glendale club announced plans for Glendale's participation in a body. Frank Keene, representative of the International Kiwanians, added to the invitation and urged Glendale to stage an auto parade and arrange to sit in a single group at the banquet.

City Manager Reeves spoke briefly relative to the Kiwanis participation in the community picnic and dedication of the new Verdugo park, saying that the two outstanding points were the enthusiasm of the citizens over the acquisition of the park property by the city and the surprise at finding it such an ideal recreation place.

Speakers and Music
Others who spoke were President Roy L. Kent of the Rotary club, and President W. B. Kelly of the Exchange club. Assistant Secretary Eugene Sanders of the Chamber of Commerce introduced the governor in an effective speech, and at the close of the entertainment luncheon, President Clark thanked the governor for his visit.

Musical entertainment consisted of vocal solos by Mrs. Garretson, cornet renditions by Elden Benge, and an exquisite violin repertoire by Miss Hazel Linkogel, in addition to the vigorous Kiwanis songs by the entire gathering.

Ethel Broome Oliver
Tea Party Hostess

Miss Ethel Broome Oliver of 819 South Central avenue was hostess yesterday afternoon to a group of friends at a charming tea.

A pretty color scheme of yellow was carried out in floral decorations of summer flowers.

Guests were Miss Lucile Allen, Miss Cecil Chase, Miss Catherine Guthrie, Miss Genevieve Mulligan, Miss Gladys Peckham, Miss Doris Packer, Miss Sarah Allen; Miss Louise Hollenback, Miss Marilyn Maubert, Miss Marie Harmsworth, Miss Dorothy Choche, Miss Dorothy Carmack, Miss Marcella Webb, Miss Eleanor Sawyer.

Miss Oliver was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Ethel Oliver, and Mrs. David English.

Mrs. Alex Mitchell
Hostess at Bridge

Mrs. Alexander Mitchell of 2001 Kenneth road was hostess at a bridge party given at her home yesterday afternoon for the benefit of the building fund of the Tuesday Afternoon club. The party was held on the lawn of the Mitchell grounds and refreshments were served under the large pepper tree. High score was made by Mrs. Helen I. Campbell and consolation prize awarded to Mrs. John Robert White.

Those present included Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mrs. J. E. Wernette, Mrs. Helen I. Campbell, Miss Annie McIntyre, Mrs. Fred Church, Mrs. Mabel Rudy, Mrs. C. E. Norton, Mrs. Pearl Curran, Miss Morgan, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Batz, Mrs. John Robert White, Mrs. John Allen Legge, Mrs. W. L. Andrews, Mrs. A. Walden of Salt Lake City and the hostess.

GO AGAINST GAMBLERS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The senate agriculture committee has authorized a favorable report on the Capper-Tincher anti-grain gambling bill, designed to prevent manipulation of grain prices.

Flashlights on Kiwanis Weekly Lunch Meeting

"Major" H. M. Butts, a gentleman of definite political views, drew the "prize" number at yesterday's Kiwanis luncheon attendance drawing, and was asked to step forward and answer a question or two.

There at the head of the table sat Governor Stephens. When Major Butts reached the spot, he was asked:

"Do you know who the Governor of California is?"

"I have had the privilege of shaking hands with him," Mr. Butts replied promptly, inclining his head toward Governor Stephens.

"Do you know who the next Governor of California will be?" was the next question.

"I hope to have the pleasure of shaking hands with him," the wily Mr. Butts replied promptly, without inclining his head. The Governor joined as heartily as anybody in the general laugh that followed.

The feature of yesterday's Kiwanis luncheon-meeting at Broadway Inn was the presentation of a handsome gold emblem lapel-button, bearing the word "President," to Chairman Raymond Clark.

Secretary Don Webb made the presentation for the membership, and delivered a brief address which was wildly applauded. His theme was the appreciation of the membership for the effort and results accomplished under the generalship of President Clark.

Mr. Clark was visibly affected by the expressions of loyal appreciation from his fellow-members, and accepted the gift with a few well chosen words of thanks. He then turned to the presentation of the membership for the effort and results accomplished under the generalship of President Clark.

Secretary Don Webb's speech of presentation of the testimonial to President Clark concluded with the remark that the membership was giving him the little insignia of president to wear until next year and would probably insist upon his continuing to hold it.

"I request that Secretary Webb be fined two bits for electioneering for your re-election at this time," a humorous member shouted to Mr. Clark.

"And while I'm imposing fines, I mulct 'Cam' Thom for sitting over there so near the kitchen again," the president retorted, pointing to Mr. Thom. "He's always as near the source of supply as he can crowd." The quick and humorous turn of the situation created much amusement.

GIRL SCOUTS OFF FOR WEEK'S CAMP

Troop No. 1 Left This Morning In High Spirits; Going to Malibu

Banners waved and colors were flying when a large party of Glendale Girl Scouts of Troop 1 and their friends left the junction of Colorado and San Fernando boulevards this morning at an early hour. The gay procession was headed by Crater's camp in the Malibu mountains, for their annual summer outing.

The American flag waved from the automobile of K. A. Beach, of 327 Riverside Drive, who led the procession and the Scout banner was carried by the O. L. Borthicks, who were next in line. All the remaining cars were decorated with posters, with the "Glendale Girl Scouts, Troop 1" in black and white.

Supplies were taken for the entire week, the bid for groceries, which was considered by several merchants, being awarded to Sam Seelig's.

A truck from Morgan's transfer company, left in advance, at 5 a. m., loaded with the "cats" and also carrying the camp cots, sleeping bags, dressing tents, and a twelve foot flag pole.

A regular scout camp will be conducted, the daily program as follows: Cooks rise at 6; reveille, setting up exercise, breakfast; assembly; tent inspection; signal practice; daily hike; cooks' report; dinner; quiet hour; recreation; swimming; cooks' report; supper; campfire; tape; silence, 9:30.

MUSIC AND DANCE NUMBERS PLEASE LEGIONNAIRES

Capacity Crowd Attends at Open Meeting and Gets Good Entertainment

Concluding the evening's entertainment with a dance last night's "open meeting" to the friends of the members of the local American Legion post was termed by many as being the most successful social function conducted by the Legionnaires this season. A capacity crowd was in attendance.

George Martin, well known cornetist, opened the evening's festivities with several selected solos. He was accompanied on the piano by Miss Marie Jones, who is a member of Eddie Monlot's orchestra.

Don Cameron, Los Angeles banker by profession and entertainer by diversion, was billed for the second act, which included several novelty songs which Mr. Cameron skillfully presented with the aid of his "trusty" ukelele, "The Yiddisher Wedding," "A Railroad Song," "Ninety-seven Dollars" and several encores included his selections.

Stage Stars Sing.
Miss Odell Cunningham, local soprano and former eastern stage star, then delighted the audience with the following solos—"The Break of Day," "There's a Light in Your Eye" and "Oh, What a Beautiful Baby." Miss Cunningham comes to Glendale from New York City, where she appeared in the Ziegfeld Follies for several seasons. She has also taken parts in "The Girl in the Spotlight" and "Angel Face," two of Victor Herbert's operas.

She has also taken parts in "The Girl in the Spotlight" and "Angel Face," two of Victor Herbert's operas.

Little Girl Dances.
The all-star program was concluded with two novelty toe dancing acts by Adeline Woodbury, child star who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Woodbury of 1111 East Orange Grove avenue. Piano accompaniment was furnished by Miss Grace Withrow, of Patience Los Angeles theatre orchestra.

Following the program the guests were served with the usual Legion bill of fare—namely, "hot dogs" and coffee, after which the floor was cleared and dancing was enjoyed. Eddie Monlot's "Jazz Hours," who furnished the music for the dancers, included himself, Miss Marion Jones, Wilbur Funk, Stanton Smith and Elden Benge.

Dr. Harrower Host to Exchange Club

The Glendale Exchange club will be guests tomorrow of Dr. Henry R. Harrower at his new bungalow uptown. "Sandy Hook" on Santa Monica beach.

Members of the club, accompanied by members of their families will meet at 10:30 tomorrow morning in front of the Broadway Pharmacy at 400 East Broadway.

They will motor to the scene of the outing via Santa Monica canyon. No formal program has been planned for the "bungalow" warming.

The Avent home on Cedar street was the scene of an enjoyable surprise affair Thursday evening, honoring Miss Elizabeth Arent, who is leaving shortly for Berkeley.

Various games and music were enjoyed and late in the evening a light lunch was served by Mrs. Avent. The company included Misses Julia Hull, Lillian and Florence Hamilton, Betty Avent and Arlon McCormick, Glenn Perkins, Paul Cunningham, Fred Peck, George Avent and Mr. and Mrs. Avent.

Ray Galvins Home From Two Week Trip

Ray L. Galvin of the Buick agency, with his wife and son Jack of 1344 North Columbus avenue and Mrs. Galvin's mother, Mrs. Enos of the Victor hotel, returned last night for a two-weeks' motor trip. A three-days' camping trip at Twin Lakes was one of the first stops after crossing the desert to Monmouth. They then went over Tioga to Mona Lake and Yosemite. After leaving Yosemite they stopped at Merced and then San Francisco, returning to Glendale after a two-weeks' absence.

INDICTMENTS AT HERRIN
CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Sufficient evidence has been gathered by Attorney-General Brundage's secret investigators in Herring to secure indictments, the attorney-general stated today, on the Herring massacre, where 22 men were killed and a number wounded.

The plan is to hold the picnic in the new city park during the afternoon and night.

Australians Need to Win Over Spain

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Needing only a single victory in the two singles matches today to clinch their right to meet America in the challenge round, the Australians are favored to win over Spain in the final round of the Davis cup series. Spain, however, is expected to put up a strenuous battle.

HENRY C. BROWN JOKES OF PRIOR TO 1850

Ninety Years Young He Has Happy Reminiscences of School Days

Ninety years young and still spirited and enthusiastic about the "old log school house" and "singing school" days Henry Clay Brown, who resides at 607 Geneva street with his daughter, Dr. Laura J. Brown, is the latest member of The Evening News Sunset club of Glendians past ninety years.

There isn't a person in Glendale more healthy and actively interested in the affairs of the day and more delighted with reminiscing than "Grandpa" Brown, and he must resign himself to the title of "Grandpa" for although 90 years young, he is in (with) 90 years old, for he was born January 3, 1832, at Franklin, Ohio, a little town among Quaker and Dutch settlements, a short distance from Dayton.

Twinkle In His Eye
There's a merry little twinkle in "Grandpa's" eye as he chuckles over the fun we boys used to have. He tells of going to school in a schoolhouse made entirely of logs, where reading, writing and arithmetic was really learned to the tune of a hickory stick. "Yes sir," says "Grandpa," "our schoolhouse was made of logs, log sides, log roof and a puncheon floor, which is a floor made of split logs and smoothed off."

"We didn't have desks like the youngsters do today. Along the walls big stakes were driven in the logs and then a board rested on these stakes to form desks, while similar benches were made to sit on and all the boys and girls sat facing the walls, while a big stove occupied the center of the room."

"If our backs got tired we had to turn around and lean against the edge of the desk. Our teachers were men and I remember one Yankee that came out to teach our school and what a merry chase we boys did lead him!"

Remembers Family Gig
Another of "Grandpa's" happy memories is his first trip up to Dayton with his father in the family "gig." It was a two wheeled, covered cart and the little Henry Clay and his father drove up to Dayton to attend a fair.

Later on when "Grandpa" was ten years old the first telegraph line was installed down through

Glendale Swimming Pool to Be Open Three Nights Week

L. R. James, manager of the Glendale municipal swimming pool at Patterson avenue and Kentworth streets, has announced that in compliance with numerous requests a night schedule has been arranged at the pool. It is planned that on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings of each week the pool will be open from 6:30 o'clock until 8:30 o'clock. Other evenings it will be closed at 5:30. It is planned to check up on the use of the pool and if the number of patrons warrants it, this schedule will be continued.

Through the co-operation of the city manager, Mr. James and the Boy Scouts, a program and practical demonstration of life saving is to be given by Frank H. Killick at the pool Monday night at 7:45 o'clock, to which the public has been invited.

Mr. James states that should any organization, club or firm have a sufficient number of its members who wish to use the pool any noon hour or evening, that arrangements will be made to have same open at the time desired. He also says that the water in the pool is now being changed three times a week.

Little Red Flivver 'Looks Like Million'

"The public service department will feel sick when they see this," says Fire Chief A. H. Lankford, surveying a shining red Ford car which now occupies a place of honor in Fire Station No. 1. The flivver had been used by the Public Service Department until its wheels had been almost run off. Then the Fire Department stepped in and bought it at a ridiculously low price.

However, the firemen are also mechanics, and all this week they have been rebuilding the machine. The motor was overhauled, the old body taken off and the frame painted a bright red. Then a new body and fenders, radiator and hood were put on and also an engine. Now the old flivver looks "like a million dollars," and will be used as a general utility car by the Fire Department.

$25,000 IN DOPE SEIZED

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 19.—Narcotic drugs said to be valued at $25,000 were seized and six men were arrested by federal officials here today. The men arrested gave their names as L. H. Vance, "Bill" Weldon, Frank Sutullo, Sam Unger, E. L. Pate, all of Mobile, and J. Russell of Cincinnati.

PEACE DOVE ON LABOR HORIZON

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

The labor situation is rapidly clearing and there were indications today that another week will see deep peace brooding once more over all or nearly all branches of American industry. The railway executives have reached a tentative understanding with the railway brotherhoods by which it is anticipated that the railway shopmen's strike will have been settled in a week. The bituminous coal strike has been broken and the most important of the operators have entered into an agreement with the miners by which work will continue another year under the old scale while an investigation is being made to establish the basis of a new wage scale. Representatives of anthracite miners and operators are meeting in Philadelphia with every prospect that an agreement would be reached at once, ending the hard coal strike.

Today's World News in Brief

By International News Service Leased Wire

DENVER MAN TO MANAGE AUSTRALIAN RAILWAYS
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—W. A. Webb, of Denver, Colo., has been made manager of the state railways in South Australia, the state department announced today.

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATION FEARED IN DRY ACT
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The move of prohibitionists to extend the "three mile zone" to eighteen miles by amending the tariff bill was dropped today following an opinion by the state department that such a course probably would lead to international complications.

TWO EXPLOSIONS ROCK ERIE RAILROAD SHOPS
HUNTINGTON, Ind., Aug. 19.—Two explosions, thought to have been caused by dynamite, early today wrecked a part of the fence around the Erie railroad shops here. Policemen on duty near the scene had been called away just before the explosion.

PRES. HARDING APPROVES CALL FOR COAL PROBE
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Harding today placed the stamp of his approval upon Senator Borah's bill providing for the creation of a coal commission to investigate the entire coal situation with a view to ultimate nationalization, or government control of the industry, if found necessary.

VIOLENT OUTBREAK IN DUBLIN BRINGS DEATH

DUBLIN, Aug. 19.—One man was killed and three others wounded in a violent outbreak of fighting in Dublin today. There had been heavy firing throughout the night accompanied by heavy casualties, but it died down at dawn. Later it was renewed. O'Connell street was swept by bullets. A soldier was wounded there. A motor car containing four free state army officers was ambushed by irregulars who bombed it. A civilian was killed by one of these bursting bombs. Three of the officers in the car were wounded.

MOTIVE IN WILKINS SLAYING IS BARED BY GIRL

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—The murder of Mrs. Anna Wilkins which to date has taken a toll of four lives and which, because of the similarity of circumstances, has been called the "second Carl Wanderer case," took a new and sensational turn today. Taken before the grand jury late last night, calm and smiling, Miss Helen Lange, sister of Mrs. Wilkins, emerged from the inquisitorial room early today weeping and broken. It was learned that she had revealed fully to the grand jury a love affair with Wilkins which the state contents was the motive for the slaying of Mrs. Wilkins.

"GENTLEMAN'S AGREEMENT" TO SETTLE STRIKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The understanding which has been reached between the committee of railway executives and representatives of the railway brotherhoods for settlement of the shopmen's strike will quickly be translated into a definite settlement ending the strike upon the basis of a "gentleman's agreement," it was believed here today. Executives representing the 148 railroads of the United States will meet here early next week, probably Tuesday, to give their answer to the proposition submitted by the brotherhoods in behalf of the striking shopmen. The "gentleman's agreement" will restore the seniority rights of the strikers without saying so in plain words.

PRESIDENT HAS SAID LAST WORD TO STRIKERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Harding's pronouncement that the federal government is prepared to use "every power" at its command to keep trains moving over the 250,000 miles of track that comprise the nation's railroad systems—even to utilization of troops and the legal weapon contained in the conspiracy laws—is his last word to both sides in the rail crisis, it was asserted today by administration spokesmen. For the present, it was said, the president will take no steps calculated to embarrass in any way the efforts at peaceful adjustment being made in New York by the joint conference of railway executives and rail union leaders. Not until it becomes apparent that the New York conference is a failure will there be any step taken to carry out the president's implied threats.

TARIFF BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE LATE TODAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The ponderous McCumber permanent tariff bill, hailed by the Republican party as an augury of national prosperity, but condemned by Democratic opposition as a harbinger of economic disaster, was enacted into law by the senate late this afternoon. Buffeted by seventeen weeks of senatorial storms, the bill will ultimately throw the highest protective tariff wall in history around every agricultural and industrial interest in the United States. Political leaders of both parties are preparing to hurl it into the maelstrom of the November elections as the technical national issue. Its supporters declare the bill will permanently protect American enterprise against invasion by cheap foreign competition, give the American farmer a living return from his fields and produce $400,000,000 annually in revenues.

REAL BEER IS ORDERED SOLD IN JOHNSTON, PA.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Aug. 19.—Every eye, or most of them, in this city was turned in the direction of the saloons which Volstead's law has not put out of business by starvation. Mayor Joseph Caufiel, having drawn a few bugs and worms out of the faucet at his home, has issued an edict that the city's water is dangerous to the lives of the inhabitants and as a remedy he has officially announced that all the saloons can go as far as they like selling beer. The only proviso the mayor makes is that the beer be the real goods (no home brew or near beer stuff). Drug stores have been advised that they can go the limit selling beer, if it is cold. The major positively prohibits the sale of moonshine and selling adulterated beverages. It must be the genuine stuff or nothing. Prohibition agents were ordered today to check up on violations of the Volstead law as a result of the edict of Mayor Caufiel, permitting the manufacture and sale of real beer.

SCHOOLS' OPENING FACES DELAY OF WEEK

New Intermediate Building Not Quite Ready; New Executive Offices

The opening of the Glendale grammar schools may be postponed one week.

Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, announced this morning that it may be necessary to defer the opening for the fall term from September 11 to 18 in order to allow the Rommel Construction company of 146 South Broad boulevard an extra week to work upon the new Glendale avenue intermediate city school.

Architect A. F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue is expected to recommend such action next Tuesday night at the next session of the grammar school board of trustees.

Legal difficulties make it impossible to open the new intermediate school after the other schools have opened for the term. State law provides that "where there is more than one school being maintained in a school district they must all be maintained for exactly the same length of time." An exception is made to this rule when a school is affected by a fire, act of providence or an epidemic. No provision is made for the present emergency.

Moreover, Mr. White believes that a great deal of unnecessary confusion would be caused by enrolling all the seventh and eighth grade pupils at the Wilson avenue school and then transferring a portion of them to the new school.

Cause of Delays
Although there is no guarantee that the new schoolhouse will be completed by September 18, Mr. Priest believes that it will be possible for the school district to take possession of it at this time.

There have been several reasons for the delay in the completion of this building, according to Mr. White. Before the work could be commenced it was necessary to remove a house from the lot. This took longer than estimated. Later about two weeks' delay was caused by inability to secure in Los Angeles coloring matter for the "Red Letter" day. The bricks had been laid off temporarily.

POSTMEN TO HAVE RED LETTER DAY

Picnic in New City Park on August 26 Will Be
Gala Affair

Even a postman appreciates a "Red Letter" day now and then and Glendale letter carriers are looking forward to such an event Saturday, August 26, when they will hold their annual picnic outing in Glendale's new municipal playground, Verdugo park.

And it will be a real "Red Letter" day, according to the committee in charge of the affair, including Si Hunt, Cal S. Nicholson, Dave Sullivan, A. Wood, Al Holcomb and William Gamble. This committee announces that sub-committees, embracing the complete force of Uncle Sam's faithful alphabet carriers have preparations well in hand. There will be games, races and prize stunts of all kinds. A band of 50 pieces will furnish music. It will be an old-fashioned picnic with real lemonade, soda pop and all that goes with them.

The big feature of the day will be a baseball game between the postoffice clerks and carriers, umpired by Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson.

Every ticket for the picnic has been numbered and those attending will participate in a drawing for several attendance prizes offered by local merchants. There is to be dancing during the day and prizes will also be awarded for the best dancing.

Concessions are to be maintained, the proceeds to be donated toward the sick and death benefit fund. Tickets to the affair may be secured from any of the city mail carriers.

Money Order Back After 6 Years Abroad

A money order, issued nearly six years ago, has been returned to the Glendale postoffice for payment to the original sender, according to George Hallett, assistant postmaster.

The money order was issued in November, 1916, to be sent to Germany. C. Wittlinger was the sender, and the order has just been received at the local office, having been returned from Germany.

Efforts of the postoffice to locate Mr. Wittlinger have proved futile, but Mr. Hallett states that if he will call at the office, the amount of the order will be repaid to him.

GREAT VAUDEVILLE BILL AND FILM AT GLENDALE

'Alias Ladyfingers' Stars
Bert Lytell, 'Yellow Men and Gold' Sunday

There is a wealth of thrills sandwiched in with the adventurous love story presented in "Alias Ladyfingers," a Bayard Veiller production for Metro starring Bert Lytell, which yesterday came to the Glendale Theatre.

The Thompson-Berri trio offering "A New Brand of Fun," presented in their own scenic effects will be among the five big acts of vaudeville today. This is one of the most amusing skits that has been sent over the circuit in some months.

Dixie Boy Morris is billed as the "Boy From Dixie." He has an original line of chatter. Gus T. Ragus is announced as an eccentric ball bouncer.

Edna & Paul have an up-to-date travesty in which they cram a bunch of big laughs into the twelve minutes. Marie Correll & Company style their contribution "An Athletic Surprise."

Romance and vivid imagination have been brought to life on the screen in the latest tale of Gouverneur Morris, "Yellow Men and Gold," a Goldwyn picture, which will be presented at the Glendale Theatre for two days, beginning Sunday. It is a tale of action in which the incidents carry the players half way across the ocean to a lost island. A hunt for treasure that Robert Louis Stevenson would have delighted in, develops so many twists and turns that every moment is crowded with excitement.

Australia has a registration of 79,500 passenger automobiles and 5400 motor trucks.

Acceleritis Is Newest Disease of Modern Times

A disease that is spreading rapidly among the motoring population, and that has been practically overlooked by the medical fraternity, is costing motorists thousands of dollars each day.

So far, no technical name has been found for it, but it manifests itself by causing the right foot to become heavier than the left, and as the right foot is the one used to accelerate the motor on an automobile, the results are often disastrous. Collisions, resulting in injury and oft-times loss of life are the worst feature. Fines for speed law violation are only a secondary consideration.

Experts who have given a great deal of time to the study of the problem are unanimous in saying that the one sure cure for the ailment in the installation of a speedometer on every automobile, and the education of the motoring public in the value of such an addition to the car's equipment. All who have given the matter careful consideration state that the motorist who pays attention to the warning of his speedometer will always be on the safe side of the law and will never be featured in the day's traffic court news.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Demand Bonus

SEATTLE, Aug. 19.—An emphatic demand for enactment of legislation providing a national bonus for veterans as soon as the tariff bill was disposed of was contained in a resolution adopted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in 23rd annual encampment here late yesterday. Another resolution demands that "treason texts" in school histories be thrown out and true accounts given of the American war for independence.

Colonel Tillinghast Huston of New York, baseball enthusiast and commanding officer of the 16th engineers in France, is slated for election as commander.

LAD SAVES BROTHER AND FRIEND FROM DROWNING

A thrilling double rescue from drowning of two high school students from the swollen waters of Rock Creek, Washington, D. C., was effected when 13-year-old Shaw Blackstone safely brought to shore his brother Frank, aged 12, and Kenny Valentine, aged 10. Young Valentine had already gone under for the second time when Frank plunged to his rescue. In the struggle for shore both went under eight feet of water and Shaw dived to the rescue and brought both to shore.

Gloom In Fighters' Camp at Michigan City Over Decision

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 19.—There was gloom in the training camps of Jack Dempsey and Bill Brennan today. Governor Warren T. McCray, having issued an official edict to a sheriff not to permit the two heavies to fight in Floyd Fitzsimmons' big show here on Labor day afternoon both Jack and Bill were up against a proposition of "what to do."

The governor, after getting the legal low-down on the proposed bout, says it will be a "prize fight." Indiana, like most other states, doesn't permit such scraps. Promoter Fitzsimmons, who has staged several big bouts here, asserts he is not one to violate any law on the statute books and contends the scheduled 10-round bout, given under the auspices of the American Legion here, will conform to every ruling of the Indiana boxing law permitting exhibitions of the manly art.

Wild Game Scarce In Some Sections

SAN FRANCISCO—Some species of wild game are threatened with extinction even in California, last great refuge of America's wild life.

Reports of the Forest Service to the State Fish and Game commission on conditions in the national forests of the state show that the number of mule deer taken in Lassen and Modoc counties is so great that extinction of the species is threatened unless additional protection is given, so as to preserve breeding stock.

Tree squirrels in Southern California are becoming so rare that a closed season for a term of years is recommended. This measure is also urged for sage hens, whose numbers are becoming much reduced in their principal habitat—Mono and Inyo counties. The grouse, although seldom hunted, is hardly holding its own in most of the mountain districts, the report shows.

To nature lovers, however, the report this year contained some gratifying features. The few bands of elk and antelope remaining in the state are on the increase, and mountain sheep, which were on a fair way to total extinction, have now reached a total of 775. The estimated number of elk is seventy-nine.

The estimated number of deer in the national forests is 184,735, and the reported kill the past season was 2,967. The reported kill, of course, was much less than the actual. The Forest Service urges reduction of the bag limit on deer, the establishment of additional game refuges and enlargement of existing ones.

An increase in the number of game wardens to make more effective enforcement possible of existing game laws is urged.

Gene Sarazen Wins Another Golf Title

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19.—Gene Sarazan became the first holder of two professional titles in the history of American golf in winning the final round of the professional golfers' championship from Emmet French of Youngstown, Ohio, four up and three to play. Sarazan, a caddy three years ago, won the National open championship at Skokie some weeks ago.

MOLLETT OF EAGLE QUARTER MILLION ROCK WINS LEGAL TAX BATTLE IN BUILDING HERE THIS MONTH

Commercial Autos Passing Through City Cannot Be Taxed, Decision

Eagle Rock, represented by the person of M. Mollett, has won a bloodless and painless legal victory over Glendale city.

Mr. Mollett was accused of permitting one of his truck drivers to transport sand, gravel and like material through Glendale without a license under section 48 of the occupation tax ordinance adopted by Glendale May 17 of this year. This was driver Lew Brummer, who had twice previously been arrested on the same charge. The case was dismissed. The decision is an important one.

Believing that $9 each three months was high for carrying gravel through Glendale, which was not for delivery there and which was neither unloaded nor loaded there, Mr. Mollett dug up some legal information and convinced Judge Lowe of Glendale this morning that higher courts had decided, in the case of the city of Burbank versus Smith, that a city cannot tax or charge license for the simple passage of a vehicle over its highways.

After hearing the arguments and learning of the precedent, the Glendale officials instructed their officers to make no further arrests under similar circumstances. And now everybody is happy, for the question is definitely settled. The section of the ordinance in question reads as follows:

Ordinance Quoted
Section 48. For every person, firm or corporation conducting, managing or carrying on the business of running, driving or operating any automobile, automobile truck or any other motor propelled vehicle used for the transportation of rock, sand or gravel, to points within or without the city of Glendale:

For each such vehicle of not more than one ton capacity, $2.50 per quarter, etcetera.

The ordinance is evidently all right, but the phrase "to points within or without the city of Glendale" was apparently taken by the police and license department to cover any transportation of the articles mentioned, whereas it is now clear that the phrase means that any such materials taken from or delivered to any point within Glendale is what is meant.

In the Burbank case, the courts declared that taxation of vehicles passing through a municipality, without doing business therein, was in effect nothing more nor less than a toll charge for the use of the highways and in any sense a business occupational tax.

Trucks delivering sand and gravel to, or taking them away from, any point within Glendale are still subject to the taxes set by the ordinance.

Honor Sister With Birthday Party

Last evening at her home at 422 E. Harvard street, Mrs. Fairy Madelyn Rinehart entertained a number of guests in honor of the birthday of her sister, Mrs. R. W. Bolton.

The evening was pleasantly spent with music the main entertainment, and Mr. Bolton gave an account during the evening of how he tried (?) to tame a wild cat at San Diego on a recent visit there.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. Polts and sons, Karl and David, of Eagle Rock, Mrs. F. J. Krikke of East Harvard street, Mr. and Mrs. F. Palmer of Galesburg, Ill., who are guests of the Krikke family this week, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bolton and daughter, Velma, Mrs. Fairy Madelyn Rinehart and daughter, Miss Twila, of Glendale.

They all departed at a late hour wishing Mrs. Bolton many happy returns of the day and voting Mrs. Rinehart a very charming hostess.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To Our Friends and Patrons

THE former First National Bank and First Savings Bank of Glendale will open for business August 21st as the

Glendale Branch

Security Trust & Savings Bank

of Los Angeles

Our merger with the strong Security organization makes possible a broader service to our patrons and a larger ability to finance the business interests of Glendale.

We gain the benefits of the sound banking experience of men who have built up the Security Trust & Savings Bank.

We gain the advantages of superior technical skill and training of a corps of experts in the various departments of the bank, which no smaller institution could afford to maintain.

With all the advantages added by the merger, this bank will sacrifice none of its local character—nor will it lose any of its real personal interest in Glendale affairs and loyalty to community enterprise.

The same officers who have actively managed the banks in the past, will continue in charge. A Local Advisory Board composed of our former Directors, will continue to guide the local policies of this Glendale institution.

Rev. C. A. Cole Will Be In Pulpit Sunday

Rev. C. A. Cole tomorrow will occupy his regular place in the pulpit of the Central Christian church. Rev. A. O. Kuhn of Denver, Colo., who has been called home suddenly from Santa Monica.

Rev. and Mrs. Cole of 132 South Kenwood street and their two sons, Myron and Connor, returned home last night in their Chevrolet from a vacation trip. They spent ten days at Arrowhead lake which Mr. Cole believes soon will be one of the most attractive summer resorts in Southern California. They then motored over the rim of the world to Big Bear lake, where they spent another week.

The biggest fish of the month was caught by Mr. Cole just before their departure. It was a four-pound trout. He was assisted in hauling it in by Myron. Although the last of the aforesaid trout disappeared at supper time last night, the family is treasuring a photograph.

The vacation was a pleasant affair according to Rev. Cole, and sunburn, snake bites and poisons were conspicuous by their absence.

Rev. W. E. Edmonds on Annual Vacation

Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church is taking his annual vacation, part of which he will spend in San Francisco and Bay district.

During Rev. Edmonds' absence the assistant pastor, Rev. Louis Tinning, will assume the pastoral duties and occupy the pulpit Sunday mornings and evenings. Rev. Tinning has announced a series of sermons for young people, to which both young and old are cordially invited. The first of the series will be given tomorrow evening, "A Young Man Conquered."

Others of the series will be: August 27, "A Young Man Choosing"; September 3, "A Young Man Conquered"; September 10, "A Young Man Conquering."

TROTSKY IN BERLIN

Monarch Co. Now Selling Motor Pep and Carbon Remedy

"There hasn't been one man here today whose car we demonstrated our carbon remover on that hasn't bought it," said J. H. Eggleston, factory representative of the International Chemical Products company of Glendale, manufacturers of Tip Top Carbon Remover and other products. With another representative, Mr. Eggleston yesterday demonstrated the company's products at the Monarch Auto Supply company, 121 South Brand boulevard, which has taken over the agency for the various products.

The two were busy all day yesterday, and are demonstrating again today, showing by actual operation the results obtained by using Tip Top Carbon Remover, Motor Pep, and Tip Top Radiator Cement. These, and several other chemical preparations are made in Glendale by the International company.

The carbon remover, it is said, will clean the carbon from cylinders and valves in a very short time. From 40 minutes to an hour it is left in the cylinders. The motor is then started and within a short running time the carbon is said to be entirely removed.

The Motor Pep, which is also being demonstrated, is said to not only add power to the motor, but to lubricate the upper part of the cylinder. It will eliminate sticking valves, according to the demonstrators.

Anyone who "wants to be shown" is invited to the Monarch Auto Supply company today to have results shown on their own cars.

Governor Obdurate About Denspey Fight

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 19.—Governor Warren T. McCray today sent a letter to Sheriff William E. Anstiss of Laporte county ordering him to see that the Jack Dempsey-Bill Brennan Heavyweight bout scheduled for Michigan City, Ind., on Labor day, does not take place.

"I demand of you, as the law enforcement officer of Laporte county, that you do your full duty and see that the fight does not take place," the letter read.

Miss Mary McDill of 1451 East Wilson avenue is home from Asilomar. She spent last Wednesday at Long Beach, where she attended a reunion and beach supper with Occidental college friends.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Vanderwood of 519 North Kenwood street had as guests for several days the early part of the week Mr. and Mrs. L. VanVliet of Redlands, and Mrs. George Stokes of Taft.

Mr. and Mrs. J. MacMillan and daughter Eleanor Louise of 350 West Broadway left last night on a six weeks' trip east. They are going by way of the Canadian Pacific through Seattle and Vancouver and will visit relatives and friends in Minnesota, Monmouth, Illinois, and will also visit Mr. McMillan's sister, Miss Carol McMillan, who is a missionary in Egypt and is enjoying a furlough at her home in Aledo, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. McMillan will return by way of Nebraska, Kansas and Salt Lake City. E. F. Allen will occupy their residence during their absence.

Deaths and Funerals

HARRY STOCK

Funeral services for Harry Stock, builder of the stone archway over the main entrance to Forest Lawn cemetery, will be held Monday afternoon, August 21, 1922, at the Pulliam-Kiefer & Everick chapel on East Broadway. The Glendale Knights of Pythias lodge will be in charge and the burial will take place in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Mr. Stock's death occurred Tuesday in Los Angeles hospital, where he had been seriously ill for two weeks.

Births

Mrs. C. E. Spanier and her baby boy yesterday afternoon left the Glendale Research Hospital for their home at 628 East Colorado street.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lopez of 520 Pioneer drive are the parents of a boy born yesterday afternoon, Friday, August 18, 1922 at the Glendale Research Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Womack of 204 West Colorado street are the parents of a girl born yesterday, Friday, August 18, 1922 at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Leslie Mann Denies Exposing Douglas

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19. — Leslie Mann, outfielder for the Cardinals, today denied that he "turned in" Phil Douglas, former Giant twirler, barred from baseball for an alleged offer to "lay down" on his team.

In denying a statement attributed to Douglas he said that he did not receive the letter in question or a telephone call in Boston. Douglas said he called Mann after writing the letter and asked Mann to "tear up the offer."

Paris Agog Over Wealthy Chicagoan's Latest Operatic Exploit

(Copyright, 1922, by the Chicago Evening American Publishing Co.)

PARIS, Aug. 19.—In honor of his second wife—the former Mme. Ganna Walska, Harold F. McCormick, Chicago "multi-millionaire," is planning to erect a magnificent opera house in this city. It was revealed today, according to authentic information.

The theatre, according to the report, promises to be one of the most beautiful and gorgeous of its kind in the world and from its glitter of lights will blaze forth its name—"The Walska."

All Paris, accustomed to things striking and unusual, is agog with report. In the best known cafes whisperings and gossip over the news has precipitated a furore, and other assembling places, the by many it is taken to mean that Mr. McCormick and his bride are going to be of Paris rather than the United States.

Lucien Muratore, famous tenor, is to be made director of "The Walska," it is learned.

Already Mr. McCormick is said to have leased the Theatre Du Montagne for his wife and that the opera star plans to give a "music festival" in the playhouse in September or October.

She herself will have a prominent part in the festival program, it is stated.

Wife Hunting In Turkey Important

NEW YORK.—"Can she bake a cherry pie, charming Billy?"

The old song comes to the mind of the traveler when he visits in a household in Turkey where there is an eligible son or daughter whose parents are desirous of marriage for them.

The procedure is very direct and businesslike. No time is wasted in getting right down to requirements and efficiency in Turkey when a young man considers matrimony.

His mother takes his business in hand and attends to it thoroughly, and no stone is left unturned until a perfectly satisfactory wife has been secured for her son.

When the young man is at a marriageable age, his mother takes an inventory of the eligible girls of the town and sets out to call on their mothers.

She makes no bones about her visit. She calmly walks in, sits down and after the two ladies have been served with coffee, the young man's mother gets right down to business.

Without any preamble or introduction, she deliberately says: "What can your daughter do?"

Immediately the young lady's mother goes to the cupboard and brings out samples of her daughter's handwork. With great pride she shows the carpets she has woven, the dresses she has made and the embroideries worked by her daughter.

There is no embarrassment on either side. After the first visit and girl in town is investigated as to her prowess as a housewife. Then the mother returns to her home and returns to her son her decision as to the most satisfactory wife for him.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Pre-Election Promises
Selling California Costly
Challenge to Congress
Sarcophagus vs. Esophagus
By Gil A. Cowan

It is interesting to talk with politicians these days. They all are so confident that it is humorous when you size up some of the candidates.

Unless tried and proven it is, indeed, wonderful to hypnotize yourself into believing that a certain person can do great things in the senate or elsewhere.

We know of one candidate, without mentioning names, who has never been engaged with the political traders who harter their votes at Washington and it is ludicrous to hear his supporters state what he will do—and will not do.

The probability is that any less clever politician than Hiram Johnson would not get anything for California in the senate. Personally, I know that he does nothing because of his determined stand on momentous questions.

Further, having come in personal contact with the senior senator from California during war days at the capitol, I can say without fear of contradiction that he is eternally vigilant in the interests of his constituency.

But I take it for granted that he has not taken a desired interest in certain private affairs of particular people who believe this government is for the masses and not the masses.

There you have in a nut shell the whole cloth of fabricated reasons against Hiram Johnson's reelection—and the cloth doesn't hold water.

In traveling about California, both on business and pleasure, and as a disinterested party, I also have noted that William D. Stephens, the present governor, is a highly respected old gentleman who should be retired with thanks and a more efficient executive placed in the high position now occupied by the former traveling salesman.

As the present governor says, he is selling California, and it certainly seems that he is selling state government at a top price because of the large number of political office-holders who need to be cleaned out of the state's employ.

Readers of The Glendale Evening News who last night pursued the text of President Harding's speech will likely agree that he spread the blame for present hard conditions pretty evenly on all parties, but he

DICK HOPPE WINS SPORT PUBLICITY FOR GLENDALE

He Licked Hard-Boiled Eddie Diggins Last Week In Bay City

Richard Hoppe, the local boy who has been boxing in San Francisco during the past three weeks, is spreading the name and fame of Glendale there according to reports from the northern city.

Hoppe, who assumes the name of Dick Hoppe when in the ring, is a partner with his brother Louis in the operation of the Glendale Auto Wash Rack at 109 West Wilson, and is known to many automobile owners and fight fans in Glendale. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Muller of 412 West Salton Street.

"Young Hoppe's" latest achievement was when he licked Eddie Diggins, the hard boiled San Francisco favorite in a bout at the Dreamland rink there, and achieved the title of lightweight champion of San Francisco. Diggins, the San Francisco man, had just rolled up a record, having kayoed seven men straight, according to Mr. Muller.

Here's what a paper in the northern city has to say about the fight, and incidentally about Glendale:

Advertises Glendale

"The name and address of the new lightweight champ of the local four-round game is Dick Hoppe, Glendale, Calif. Another famous citizen resides in that town, namely: Frank Chance, who was quite a fighter on the diamond.

"Hoppe went over" by decisively defeating Eddie Diggins in the main event at Dreamland rink last night. The local boxer was outboxed, outfought, and outpunched for three rounds and held even in the fourth.

"Expected not only to whip Hoppe, but perhaps to stop him, Diggins didn't seem to know what it was all about. He fought a listless, indifferent battle, and in the first and second rounds hardly attempted to hit his opponent."

The fight by rounds shows that the summary is correct, Hoppe having put it all over the northerner in every department.

The local boy has been having much success ever since he journeyed to the bay city, says Mr. Muller, and is doing much to not only make a name for himself in the boxing world, but to attract more attention to Glendale. It is his belief that this city, if it can lead in building, business, homes and climate, can also take a high place as a producer of athletes.

Sport High Spots

Here in Los Angeles the Angels forced ahead in their series with the Oaks by taking a pitching duel by a 2 to 3 score. Dumovich and Krause were opening slab artists, the former being touched up for but four hits and the latter seven during the game. The winning marker was made in the fourth when Twombly crossed the plate on Lindimore's single.

The management of the Portland baseball team yesterday fulfilled its recent promise regarding the purchasing of players to bolster up the club when it was announced that Tom Taver, Beaver scout who is now in the east, had purchased two pitchers from the Philadelphia Athletics for immediate delivery. The players, by name, they are expected to report to Jimmy Middleton, the Duck squad's newest boss, in Los Angeles next week. It was also announced that Turner is dickering with John McGrath of New York regarding a deal the outcome of which will be made today.

In his first wrestling appearance since returning from a trip abroad several weeks ago Bull Montana, known in the grappling game as the sport's most versatile adherent, last night was defeated by Eddie O'Connell in the main event of a show held at the Covina American Legion stadium. The men will meet in a return match within the next few weeks. In the two preliminaries to the wrestling cards each resulted in a draw. Ladjini and Peterson and Taylor and Johnston were the grapplers.

Art "Sandow" Griggs, although out of the game with injuries, is tied with Jimmy O'Connell for fourth place in the Coast league race, their averages being .352 for the season. Paul Strand, Salt Lake hard-hitting first baseman-outfielder, continues to top the sluggers with the one of the highest averages ever held by a Coast leaguer at this stage of the season. Having accounted for 210 safe hits in 531 trips to the plate he is safely entrenched in first place with a mark of .395. Hale of Portland and Duffy Lewis of Salt Lake are in second and third places, their averages being .379 and .375, respectively.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT OF SPORT

By WOOD COWAN

"Ma" got licked! Maid overcame matron in the semi-final round of the woman's national tennis championships yesterday when Miss Helen Wills, of San Francisco, 16-year-old school girl, defeated Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, fellow Californian, mother of four children, and a world's champion, before

Miss Wills was born. She won in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

In previous tournaments Mrs. Bundy's game has been steady and her stroking as brilliant as at any other time of her career. Her record is unique. She came into prominence in 1904 through winning the U. S. Championship. The following year she won the British Title and repeated the feat in 1907. This was the first time any American had won at Wimbledon. Those were her best years.

But she was active in tournament play until her marriage to Thomas D. Bundy in 1912. Then for several seasons she was out of competition. Last year, however, she came back during the Women's Championship, in such sensational style that she won the admiration of all who saw her.

Her powerful hitting and steady court generalship make her a very versatile player and one to be feared at all times. Her game is as smooth and resourceful as if, in the intervening years, she had not become the mother of four lusty, cheering youngsters.

The World Over

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

With a little less than a month to go before the 1922 football season gets under full swing in all sections of the country, the fellow who wants to get on some team will make no mistake if he starts in right now and begins to get into physical shape. It will make things much easier when the time comes to get on the field.

Among the conference colleges there is a rule which prohibits teams from officially starting their training and practice until a stipulated date. This is done in order that no team will have an advantage over another in the matter of preparedness. But there is no ruling which prevents an aspirant for football honors from individually fitting himself for the season.

Fumbling is one of the greatest faults of the player, particularly the beginner, and those fumbles often have turned victory into a defeat. The veteran player can give no better advice at this time than to recommend getting a football and to begin the handling of it. It is no trouble at all to get someone to kick and pass to the ball with, and an hour or so of this each day for the next few weeks will work wonders.

The hardening process may be begun by taking walks and short runs through the country. It will lighten the burden mightily when it comes to the preliminary practice. The early season is deadly for the cases of Charley horse of the muscles which it produces by reason of a soft body getting a too stringent burden put on it. Cases of Charley horse have been known to hang on throughout the season and cripple many a promising player. To begin the hardening process will be a considerable insurance against this bugbear.

The news despatches are to the effect that the Navy team at Annapolis will begin training in the very near future. In doing this the midshipmen get the jump on many of their rivals who are bound by conference rules not to begin their work until the middle of September. There is nothing that prohibits the Army team at West Point from doing likewise, and they probably will do so. At the same time the restricted colleges, in playing these teams early in the season, are taking the chance of being defeated with their eyes open.

There has been some talk by conference colleges of eliminating both of the service teams from their lists in the future on this account, and no blame would attach to them if they acted on this idea. For a team which has not had time to develop its play to meet another in mid-season form is admittedly not exactly an equal contest.

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The Los Angeles A. C. winner of last year's National A. U. track and field championships has definitely decided to send a team to Newark, N. J. to defend its title next month. A team of twelve men will make the trip to the big meet.

That the southern California club will have an exceptionally strong team—with or without Charles Paddock—is evident from the announcement of the men who will go east, provided they win their events in a series of tryouts to be held at Los Angeles in the next two weeks.

Fog Murray, national high and low hurdles champion in 1915 and low hurdle champion in 1916 will captain the team and the way he is running at the present time over the sticks is sure to be on the team. Earl Thompson formerly of Dartmouth and world record holder in the hurdles will also probably go east with the Los Angeles team. Two other hurdlers who have a chance are Daggs and Yount, both members of the last U. S. Olympic team, while Yount took third in last year's high hurdle title.

Whether Paddock is going east has not yet been stated by that temperamental star, but considerable pressure is sure to be used to try and have him make the trip and meet all the eastern sprinters who are anxious to measure strides with him, notably Murchinson and Leconey. Schiller who took third in the "quarter" last year will be on the team and J. C. Argue the best sprinter outside Paddock in the south, who is also a broad jumper is mentioned for a place. In the mile the L. A. C. will be represented by young Kerr the present coast interscholastic champion.

In the field events, particularly in the shot put, the team will be strong with Mouser, last year's National champion who beat Pat McDonald and Hartrant who this year created a sensation by his putting and has a record of better than fifty feet.

The full Los Angeles team will stop off at Sacramento on the way east and compete in the Far Western title meet on September 2nd and the same night will leave for Newark, N. J. For some years past this title meet has been held as a feature of the Sacramento State Fair, and announcement was made today by Herbert Hauser, secretary of the Pacific Association Branch of the A. A. U. that next year the State Fair in cooperation with the Sacramento chamber of commerce will apply for the National championships as the big feature of the fair. The Fair people and the Chamber of Commerce is ready to put up some real coin of the Republic to land the national event for 1923.

The meet at Sacramento September 2nd will bring together all the best athletes of the west. The Multnomah A. C. of Portland, University of California, twice winner of the National Intercollegiate meet, and the Olympic club with the Los Angeles team will be the strongest contenders for the team title. The standard program will be contested with the exception of the quarter mile hurdles and the five mile will be replaced by a two mile championship.

Both principals face the possibility of dual champions by tonight. They will meet across the net again in the play for the doubles title, Mrs. Mallory being paired with Miss Edith Tourney of Boston and Miss Wills with Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, of Wilmington, Del. Whether it wins or loses, the Wills-Jessup team has proved itself the best in the country in previous tournaments.

But she is only a child, the other a mature woman whose life has been given over to developing strength. She figures to outlast Miss Wills just as she did at Glencove some weeks ago after the "Frisco girl" won the opening set.

Tactically, American galleries have turned thumbs down on Mrs. Mallory. A woman who wins a championship six times invites unpopularity just on general principles and Mrs. Mallory's attitude on the courts and in the clubhouse has strengthened rather than dissipated this feeling. As a matter of contrast, the Wills child is idolized. She is young and youth was ever a thing to be admired.

If Helen Wills wins the championship today at the age of 16, her popularity will be no whit less than that of Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, who came into her first title at the same age 18 years ago.

It is possible that she will beat Mrs. Mallory today, but not probable. She has the strokes, the generalship, the speed, and, in fact, everything that goes with a championship game.

But she is only a child, the other a mature woman whose life has been given over to developing strength. She figures to outlast Miss Wills just as she did at Glencove some weeks ago after the "Frisco girl" won the opening set.

LYNWOOD TO PLAY MERCHANTS HERE TOMORROW

Game With Firemen Called Off, but Good Battle Is Arranged Anyway

Making their first trip away from home, the Lynwood baseball team will invade Glendale tomorrow afternoon with the intention of putting the skids under the Glendale Merchants at the ball park at Park avenue and San Fernando at 3 P. M.

The game which the Merchants were to have played with the Glendale firemen and policemen was called off several days ago. Jack Kerns, of the police force, and manager of the city team decided that his crew was not yet in proper form to tackle the Merchants, and it is probable that the game will be scheduled for a few weeks from now.

Lynwood, says manager "Ty" Cobb, has been trying for several weeks to schedule a game with Glendale, but until this Sunday Cobb's men have been booked straight through. When the city police and fire game was called off, Cobb journeyed to Los Angeles Thursday evening to attend the meeting of the Greater Southern California Managers' Association. When he announced at the meeting that the Merchants were open for a game this Sunday, Lynwood grabbed at a chance to tackle the locals.

Taking Chances. Although Lynwood has been playing such a good game that it was not necessary for the team to travel to get games, they agreed to make the trip to Glendale tomorrow just for a chance at the renowned Merchants. This will be their first game away from home, and Cobb hopes to hand them such a lemon as far as a score is concerned that they will never attempt another trip.

The Lynwoods, says Cobb, have won 18 out of 23 games, and have one of the strongest teams in the Association. In fact, so says the local manager, the Lynwood-Glendale game is the feature contest of this week end's bookings in the Association.

Dan Ogler, formerly of the Cal-paco Paints, winners of the Los Angeles industrial league, is to twirl for Lynwood, and Pat Rozelle formerly of the Mare Island Navy Yard team will catch for the visitors. Opposing that pair, the battery for the Merchants will be Wes Ageson dishing out some hot ones from the mound, and the husky bambino King behind the bat.

The lineup for the Merchants, as selected by Cobb, will be Planders, 2b; Griffin, lf; Ageson, p; King, c; Bell, 1b; Acosta, 3b; Cobb, cf; Wilson, ss; Harris, rf.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM OFTEN SOLVED BY COURTESY

Golden Rule In Driving Is
Sure Cure for Most of Difficulties

This is not a story of the brotherhood of man, but rather of the equality of all highway travelers.

The highways are for everyone. On them, no one is king. Every person meets every other person on the highway, upon a common ground, upon an equality of drivership. The man in the big twin eight has no greater privilege upon the public highway than the man with the twin two flivver and if the latter wants to pass the big car he should have the chance if there is room. Likewise, a big speedy car ought to have half of the road to pass the big, heavily-laden motor trucks.

Cheerful Road Courtesy
Let the other fellow have the other half of the road.

Swing out with safety to let the hurried driver pass.

When you hear a horn—it may be your brother's—give ground. If a man's in trouble, be a good Samaritan.

Give the woman driver a chance.

Credit the other driver with business just as important as yours, until you know different.

Say, "The road wasn't wide enough." Instead of, "Why didn't you keep over on your own side?"

Smile.

Make friends with every driver. They may help you sometime.

The man who bumped you may feel worse than you do.

Smile—keep smiling.

On the highways, courtesy alone is king.

Even if charity does begin at home, it should be continued on the highways and byways, should it not? There is no logical reason why the automobile or trucks should run down courtesy and kill it.

It is human nature, perhaps, that he who drives a car or truck naturally blames the other fellow. We—you and I—cannot possibly make a mistake. It's always, "No sir; it wasn't my fault. He should have stayed on his own side. He bumped into me." That's the way you and I explain most of the accidents, isn't it? It is absolutely true that for every car we pass we also pass the buck for the blame.

Whenever we drive, there are over ten million automobiles and truck drivers on the road with us. We are all human, but we all have our equal rights, and we must keep friendly with the other drivers.

We might just as well sit up and think the situation over carefully now, because the number of drivers is increasing by the million every year. The roads aren't widened fast enough to make it possible for us to have our former freedom and room. We must "give ground" a little more all the time as the traffic increases.

The law of the highway of the future will not be might, but courtesy.

INDIANA'S MODEL HIGHWAY TO BE NOVEL ROAD

Specifications Required Two Years' Research Work
By Engineer Crew

Construction work on the far famed stretch of model highway known as the "ideal section" of the Lincoln highway in Lake county, Indiana, is now under way after nearly two years of preliminary research.

In addition to $33,000 per mile provided by the state of Indiana, Lake county authorities have assured $25,000 from the county funds toward paying for the construction of the section. Extra expense beyond the sum supplied by the state and county, which is equivalent to what the construction of the usual state specifications would cost will be met by the Lincoln highway association through a special fund.

Done by November.

It is expected that the paving work will be accomplished by the end of October, many details including the lighting installation and the beautification of the right of way remaining for accomplishment until next spring.

In the design of this unique section of the Lincoln highway is embodied the mature thought of fifteen of the foremost experts in highway construction and engineering and related problems in the United States. Acting as the technical committee of the Lincoln highway association, this committee drew up the specifications for the section.

Shows Road Necessity

While it is not expected that many states can undertake in the near future highway improvements embodying all of the principal elements of the "ideal section" design, it is felt that the design will be suggestive and will tend to bring to the attention of the American public the vital necessity of adequacy in present day specifications if the vast sums which are now going into highway construction are to properly serve the America of today and tomorrow.

Submarine Road Is Planned at Pismo

A new wrinkle is a sand road, lapped gently by the swishing waves in low tide and completely submerged in high. It sounds a bit phoney, but such is the plan for the new highway from Guadalupe Bridge, north of Santa Maria, to Pismo. A schedule of tides will be posted at either end of the twelve mile stretch, so that the cautious traveler may know if he is to go speeding along the hard sand, or, like his forebears, the children of Israel, go plowing through the waves.

But in these days of turmoil, the patriarch, whoever he may be, will have to do double duty. Since tides change every day, he will have to recollect the old skill in the matter of tablets, and take charge of the signboard.

Old Prospector Appreciates Modern Conveniences on Exploring Trips

A corner of the Camping Goods Section of the Western Auto Supply Co's store - Old Prospector examining latest camping equipment.

Privations and Hardships of Golden Days Gone In Motor Age When Every Essential May Be Carried

The other day an old prospector dropped into the Western Auto Supply company's store, to get a few odds and ends for his flivver.

He informed the salesman who waited upon him that in days gone by he had hunted, trapped, and even prospected for gold all up and down the coast from Alaska to Mexico.

He told of the hardships of the old west, the slow means of travel by horse or dog, or snowshoe and afoot; the meager camps that were set up at night at the end of a long day's journey through the desert; of the biting cold when traveling in the Yukon during the long winter months, plodding behind a dog team.

Describes Privations and Hardships

Vividly, he described the privations and hardships of sleeping at night with scanty protection; living on flapjacks, bacon and coffee, for weeks at a time, because he could not over burden his pack animals with anything but the bare necessities of life.

All this he had lived through with little thought for pleasure, hoping only to strike it rich, go home, and live in plenty thereafter.

Then when the salesman took him through the camping department and showed him all those things which make living out in the open so convenient—how his eyes lighted up—inspecting a large tent rolled up not much larger than a tightly rolled blanket; watching the salesman take apart a complete assortment of aluminum pots and pans that hardly would take up more room than the frying pan and coffee pot he used back in '79.

Recalls Cold Meals
And the folding gasoline stove—he recalled the many times he didn't eat because he could build no fire on account of the wood being wet, or because he could find none. Ah, a collapsible gasoline stove was surely the thing for the great out-of-door life.

We of the present day are fortunate indeed. Cars with luggage stowed neatly away on the running boards instead of on a string of pack mules. Yet one single small car, carefully loaded with compact camping goods, will carry more camping equipment than a string of half a dozen pack animals.

Is it a wonder, with all these modern conveniences, that tens of thousands of motorists go camping each week-end to enjoy the life of the great out-of-doors and yet carry with them most of the conveniences to which they are accustomed when living in the cities?

"The old world sure does progress," added the old prospector, as he glanced wistfully and longingly at the many camp conveniences spread out before him.

AUTO CAMPS HELP

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 19.—Automobile camp grounds are a great help in bringing new residents to a town. Salem has found. Last week a Minneapolis family arrived at the camp grounds here one evening and bought a home the next day. Several other homes here have been sold this summer to tourists who have stayed for a time at the auto park.

Half Dome Hikers Are Taking Chance

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK.

The famous double cable up the smooth side of Half Dome was wrecked by the fierce snows of last winter, but many hikers continue to "take a chance" on climbing the great glacier-carved mass of granite.

The last winter was unusual all over California and in the high Sierra country of Yosemite the fall of snow was beyond previous records. Half Dome, standing 4900 feet above Yosemite valley, still wears part of its snowy crown, indicating the great depth of the fall at that altitude. The heavy snow snapped the right cable like a cotton string, so that the entire lower half is gone. The left cable is down flat on the rock for more than 300 feet of the climb, making it difficult and perhaps dangerous for anybody to attempt the ascent unless he or she be equipped with a cool head and stout arms.

Veterans of Italian Army Buy Taxis

A service of some 35 motor taxicabs has recently been installed in Florence by veterans of the war under the name of the Associazione, Feduci di Guerra, says Consul Dorsey, Florence, in a report to the Automotive division of the department of commerce. The cars are of Italian manufacture, of the landaulet type and operated by four cylinder monobloc 20 horse-power engines. The association expects to put 15 additional cabs in service in the near future. The tariff is 1.50 lire for 300 meters.

AVERAGE NUMBER

The average number of people to each automobile in California is 5.16. In Alabama it is 28.5.

Use Your Brakes and Head at Same Time, Do Not Slide Tires

"Believe me, I sure slid my tires, and when I hit the other fellow, my car was barely moving."

So quoth one of these chronic "wise guys" as he recounted his marvelous achievements to the meek little bird.

But the meek one used his head more than his mouth.

"If you hadn't slid your tires, you wouldn't have hit him at all," he chirped in reply.

The modest one was right. The impression which many automobile owners seem to entertain that sliding the tires is the quickest method of stopping is all wrong.

The bearing surface of an ordinary sized automobile tire on the pavement is about nine square inches. With two rear wheels dragging that means a traction surface holding the car of about 18 square inches.

The gripping surface of an average brake band on a drum is about 30 square inches. With a band gripping a drum on each rear wheel, a braking surface of somewhere around 60 square inches is obtained. The larger the area of braking surface, the quicker and smoother the stop can be made.

If you slide your tires, you not only wear them out unnecessarily, but you lengthen the distance required to bring your car to a stop. If you apply the brakes more gradually, enough so that the brake lining takes hold, but not enough so that the wheels lock, you have 60 square inches of braking surface as compared with 18 inches if you slide your tires. And the 60 inches of brake lining is scientifically designed for that one purpose—to stop your car.

PLANE PILOTED BY AUTO CLUB'S STRIP MAPS

L. C. Brand Sees Advantage of Highways Guiding
Flying Chariot

Cross-country flying by Automobile Club of Southern California strip road maps is the latest development of this gasified age and it remained for L. D. Sale of Los Angeles, a member of the club, to put the well known club maps to such use, it is reported in the August issue of Touring Topics, the magazine of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Mr. Sale and L. C. Brand, millionaire aviation fan of North Glendale, are life long friends whose chief delight in life is to put something over on each other. And incidentally, they are both great believers in aviation and both owners of planes, Mr. Brand of a whole stable.

At the time of the recent real estate convention in San Francisco, Messrs. Brand and Sale decided to fly to the Bay City in advance of the more prosaic motor caravan which journeyed forth from Los Angeles. As was customary on such trips, Mr. Brand and Mr. Sale enjoyed a good deal of friendly repartee as to their respective abilities as aerial navigators.

Story of Trip

When they took off from Glendale on the day of the trip, Mr. Brand and Pilot Gil Budwig got an early start on Mr. Sale and Pilot Remelin due to the fact that Mr. Brand's big Lepere is a great deal faster plane than the Mono Eagle in which Mr. Sale was flying.

But fortune favored the slower plane and its occupants, for when they had crossed the Tehachapi range they ran into conditions of fog and haze which made navigation very difficult. It was here that Mr. Sale took advantage of his membership in the Automobile club to draw out his little package of "strip maps" showing the route to San Francisco, which he had brought along more out of curiosity than anything else.

He found that the maps were most excellent for flying, as the ribboned asphalt and concrete of the highways is always visible from a good altitude and the faithfully drawn strip maps show every jog and turn, every village and hamlet, and most valuable the mileage throughout, not only from Los Angeles and San Francisco, but from town to town.

Haze Hinders Them

Mr. Sale was not only able to beat Mr. Brand to San Francisco when that gentleman got somewhat off his course in the haze above Monterey, but he enjoyed every minute of the trip. By timing the plane between cities and taking advantage of the mileage notations on the maps, he was able to figure out at all times the exact speed of the plane and, by comparing with the air speed indicator, gauge the direction and speed of the wind.

The maps in the strip form are extremely well adapted to aerial usage, not only for their accurate and essential information, but also by reason of their form, as their size makes them easy to handle and read in the wind-blown cockpit of an airplane. Mr. Sale and Mr. Brand, both of whom are having new airplanes built, will make Auto club road maps a specified part of the equipment of the new ships.

The average discharge of water of the Ohio river is about 300,000 cubic feet a second, the maximum flow approximately 1,500,000 cubic feet a second or 30 times the minimum flow.

WHOM

Do you think of
When you think of a car?

When you are thinking about the new car you expect to buy, it's well worth while to think a little of the three people who are most interested in that car.

There is yourself who will pay the bills and drive the car. There is the man who made it. And there is the man who sells it to you.

After you get the car, the whole proposition is up to you and the man who sold the car to you. As long as you drive the car, his interest in your satisfaction should be constant and friendly. He should be always ready to supply whatever you and the car may require. He should be an ever present guarantee of your satisfaction in ownership.

We run this business so that our patrons and their friends think of us in that light.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM OFTEN SOLVED BY COURTESY

Golden Rule In Driving Is
Sure Cure for Most of Difficulties

(Continued from Page 5, right)—because lives are in the balance. Hundreds of thousands of our children are being killed every year because of the selfishness of drivers. We are all good natured at heart, but the crust over our exterior won't let us be charitable toward the other fellow—that is, if he is in an automobile or truck. Meet him face to face in a lobby of a hotel or in his home and he is a mighty good fellow, but on the highway—he is someone or something entirely different.

Causes of Accidents
Why should we say, "Let George move over and stay on his own side of the road and accidents won't happen." Let us see what the foolish stiffness of our backbones is doing. There are three main causes of accidents. They are:

1. Foolish chances taken.
2. Misjudging road distance or speed.
3. Mishaps due to mechanism.

Number one by far overshadows all others in causing accidents.

One thing we passenger car drivers must remember is this: The truck has its place on the highways. It is part of our great commercial system and business would suffer tremendously without it. You would go without a good many things tomorrow if the motor truck ceased to exist.

The truck driver has his rights and they should be respected. He is human and just as likeable a fellow as there is in the world, and he is on the job doing his work, as he sees it, and being busy, he is thinking about nothing else but getting his load delivered. If you or I were driving in his place, that is the thing we would be doing, too. We should always remember that, although the truck may be going slowly and may be taking up a lot of the road its errand may be much more important than ours and its driver may be in just as big a hurry as we are.

Caution Is Necessary

The truck driver should, on the other hand, remember that the highways were not built entirely for commercial use and that there are nine times as many passenger cars on the road as there are trucks, and that the errands they are on are not all frivolous. Doctors, commercial travelers, heads of business and many others are constantly using the roads for business purposes as important as those of the trucks. Big deals may be pending, or lives may be at stake, and these passenger

Radio Is Anything but "Wireless"— Fans Find It Takes a Lot of Copper

Radio Girl, On Marconi Ship, Sitting In Maze of Copper Wires

By good fortune the old word "wireless" has now given way to "radio," a shorter and more accurate term. The amateur would have changed it anyway long before this because he is coming to a full realization of what an endless amount of wire is needed to operate a really efficient "wireless" set.

The amateur as well as the professional finds himself working with a maze of copper wires and brass posts, plugs, and bases. The head phones for instance have concealed in their covering a mile of enameled copper wire with a diameter about the size of a human hair.

It is in the antennae or aerials for radio telephony that copper is of the greatest use. Probably in no other service is copper subjected to a more critical test and, in addition to providing unequalled conductivity where it is most needed, copper also permanently resists corrosion and furnishes the necessary tensile strength to resist the wind and its own weight. Attempts to substitute aluminum have met with little success because it lacks strength. And so called "copper clad" wire, which is steel wire covered with copper, gives only about forty per cent as much conductivity as real copper wire.

Experiments by the U. S. bureau of standards have led to the conclusion that No. 14 or No. 16 bare copper wire is the best. For large antennae phosphor bronze made with seven strands of No. 20 or No. 22 wire is most satisfactory. This strand construction absorbs considerable stress and minimizes stretching.

The Electra, Marconi's radio ship, is a good example of the use of copper, brass and bronze where the best radio results are successfully sought. Quite aside from the lavish use of rustless material in the construction of the ship itself the Electra is equipped with a radio room that bristles with these radio metals.

cars must go on with the least possible delay. The truck driver should remember that slow moving traffic should keep to the right, should not blunder into congested traffic at right angles, and that at highway intersections road courtesy should be at its best.

Drivers of every kind of vehicle should keep friends with every other driver. Not only does present day traffic demand it, but common sense requires it. One smile does more to make highway friendships than a thousand words. With a smile you can go anywhere on the highways. It is the good will of your fellow travelers that you and I must cultivate to make satisfactory progress on our various journeys.

Let's get into such a frame of mind that we will not expect all of the other people to get off the highways and give us the road in passing. I have been just as unreasonable as you. We have both been "it." Let's give a thought to road courtesy and see how many road friends we can make. Let's keep friends with George!

GOVERNMENT WILL WAR TO REDUCE DRUG SALES

United States Largest Per Capita Opium Consumer
In Whole World

By HARRY L. ROGERS
For International News Service.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Uncle Sam is setting about in real earnest to get rid of his present reputation as the world's greatest drug addict.

Despite thinly veiled insinuations from abroad that the United States is taking no interest in the international effort to suppress traffic in opium and its derivatives, the American government is doing probably as much to combat the evil as any of those nations which are loudest in complaining that international co-operation is lacking.

Surprised as the average man in the street may be to hear it, the fact remains that the United States is the largest per capita consumer of opium and its compounds of all the nations of the world. A somewhat belated realization of this fact by congress, resulting in the enactment of the so-called Jones-Miller bill, has freed the hands of the administration and enabled it to make definite action looking to the curbing of the quantity of habit-forming drugs used in this country.

A committee, consisting of Secretary of State Hughes, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Commerce Hoover, already has been formed, in accordance with the terms of the new law, and is now actively engaged in superintending the putting into execution the provisions of the law.

Previous Laws Ineffective
In general it has been found that previous legislation in the United States has been directed toward confining the distribution of drugs to certain recognized channels rather than to placing absolute restrictions upon their importation. The ostensible result of this kind of legislation has been the designation of druggists as the only legal vendors of habit forming drugs. The actual result has been to put the United States at the head of the list of nations as a consumer of opium.

The Jones-Miller law seeks to curtail the amount of opium brought into the country. Considerable resentment has been felt here at charges from Europe, emanating chiefly from the seat of the League of Nations, that the United States has failed to co-operate with other nations in the effort to suppress the drug traffic. The motive back of these repeated insinuations is believed to be a desire to renege on the treaty for having entered the league. In this connection recent reports from Europe stated that Secretary Hughes had used The Netherlands as a go-between in communicating with the league on this subject.

Reports Are Untrue

These reports are absolutely without foundation. On the highest official authority it may be stated that Secretary Hughes has sent no recent communication to the nations of Europe or to the League of Nations on the subject of the opium traffic. The precise position of this government with respect to the league and the whole movement for drug control is officially described as follows:

Under the International Convention of 1912 it was provided that the factual information concerning the drug traffic should be received at The Hague, the Netherlands government being charged with the appropriate duty in this respect. Under Article 23 of the Treaty of Versailles it was agreed that the general supervision of the international agreement relating to opium should be transferred to the League of Nations.

As the United States did not ratify the Treaty of Versailles the matter, so far as the United States is concerned, was left subject to the international convention, which the United States has been at all times ready to carry out. It could do nothing else. The Dutch government was so informed, as the treaty in existence could not be modified, so far as the United States was concerned, except by a new treaty.

No Communication Sent.
That, in a nutshell, is the American attitude toward the league on the opium question. Hughes has sent no recent communication on this subject, as there has been no occasion for such a communication. Officials believe reports of information transmitted to the league by the Dutch government may be based upon the transmission of data obtained by the Dutch legation here and forwarded to The Hague.

Secretary Hughes has designated E. L. Neville, of the United States Consular Service, and formerly in the Division of the State Department, as his official representative upon the committee formed under the Jones-Miller law.

Statistics now under consideration by these officials show that Turkey, Persia and India are the principal producers of opium, while China also produces a considerable amount. The greater part of the opium used in the United States comes from Smyrna.

Australian states are opening millions of acres to settlers. Victoria proposes to throw open 1,250,000 acres of northwestern land. At the same time railway extensions in progress in the state will make provision for 500 other farms. Queensland will open up 1,000,000 acres of crown land and construct the Dawson river irrigation works which will be one of the largest in the world.

Hupmobile Sales Keep Pace With Growing Knowledge of Values

It is interesting to note how closely the steadily ascending line of Hupmobile sales has followed the increase in general knowledge of, and insistence upon, motor car value.

Ever since the public turned from loose spending to close buying, this Hupmobile sales line has shot upward with astounding rapidity.

This increase in demand for the Hupmobile, after more than a year and a half of steady acceleration, today shows no sign of diminishing. Instead, the shattering of new sales records, both here and throughout the country, is a matter of monthly record.

The constantly growing demand for the Hupmobile goes straight back to the fact that the car is a remarkably good value for the price you pay, and a greater value in its saving in cost of upkeep and of operation.

The final saving, which the Hupmobile owner realizes because of his car's high re-sale value, is a further evidence of the soundness of the Hupmobile as an investment.

Sparks and Exhausts

"Wonderful how the automobile is replacing the horse," said the butcher, slipping a few pieces of inner tube into the sausage grinder.

What is the difference between an ambitious station owner and his willing helper? One aspires and persists—the other perspires and assists.

The man who used to complain about only being able to travel a hundred miles on a quart of cheap motor oil now boasts about going four miles to get an expensive quart of fuel oil.

Up in a mountain camp of a road contractor a careless driver recently filled his tractor crankcase with table syrup that he mistook for oil. Of course it wasn't long until the motor "froze." "Well," he said, as he got out his tools, "she sure run mighty sweet for a few minutes, anyway."

A Newark newspaper, commenting on the agricultural machine in the present congress, observes it looks like a tractor. "Undoubtedly, and following automotive practice—Cast on bloc."

An automobile dealer with whom we are well acquainted was recently asked how he found business. "The same way you find an artesian well," he replied.

The Hoyt Metal company avers that "The Motor's Reputation Is Born In The Bearing."

We mentioned this to Professor Stein, who lives next door and owns his ninth car. "The reputation may be born in the bearing," he said ponderously, "but it is made in the demeanor."

The prospect was timid, a little uncertain, but deeply interested in the big sedan. He peered under the hood, sat under the wheel, and then almost furtively, "How much is it?"

"Thirty-eight hundred dollars," said the dealer.

The prospect glanced nervously through the window to the curb. "You'll make allowance for my Ford touring car, won't you?" he pleaded.

"Sure," said the dealer with a yawn. "Don't mention it."

Speaking of Mr. Ford, which we almost were, we hear he is trying pasteboard as a substitute in automobile bodies. Only a short step to making cylinders and pistons of asbestos, frames of papier-mache and tires of hemp. And in that enlightened day the tool box will contain only a tube of glue, a paper of pins and a ball of twine. And any stationery store will be a service station.

CALIFORNIA MUST LOOK TO ITS LAURELS

Chicago Becoming Famed for Many Beautiful Drives, Says Realty Man

California must look to its laurels if it retains its lead in the matter of state highways. Other states are building fine roads too. This was emphasized anew by L. M. Smith, president of the Chicago Realty Board, who was visiting here recently. Mr. Smith says that in his trip through the West this spring he has found many states entering on most ambitious road building that will give them networks of highways comparable with those of this state.

"However, I must say that California has the jump on the rest of the states and now has a wonderful system of roads," he said. "And I am told that more fine concrete or macadam roads are contemplated. I find that different types of roads are needed in different localities, but almost everywhere the macadam road gives good service. With us in Illinois the well-built gravel road is hard to beat."

Mr. Smith says that Chicago is also becoming noted for its wonderful drives. He believes that the next few years will see almost every

Speed Wagon Serves As Plumbing Shop

"One of the most unusual services which is being rendered by a Reo Speed Wagon is that of a traveling plumbing shop," according to Harry E. White, of the Harry E. White, Inc., local Reo dealer, who has just received a description of the unique body which has been mounted on a Speed Wagon chassis by P. E. Cornell of Kansas City.

"Mr. Cornell's idea was to give the people the advantage of service without wasting time in going back and forth to his shop for material, which is, as you know, all state in the West building good roads so that it will be as easy to make a trip across country in an automobile as by train. And most of the transcontinental highways will be lined with motor inns where people will find excellent accommodations."

Dealer Big Factor In Future Sales of Cars, Says Clark

"The time is fast coming when motor cars will be judged, not so much by those who make it, but the deciding factor will be the dealer's responsibility for the product he handles," said Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street.

The day of the curbstone automobile broker is past. The automobile dealer today has his place in the community just the same as the merchant who deals in any other high class commodity, and with the others who conduct stores and offices to serve the public, the automobile dealer today is obliged to deliver not only the article but satisfaction in its use as well.

The good and popular makes of automobiles are all represented in Glendale by responsible dealers like other merchants, who have invested money, life and effort in this community and are selling a good article, backed up by a guarantee of satisfaction in the use of it.

When you buy an automobile from a local motor car merchant you can be assured of prompt and careful service and have a feeling that there is an interest in having your automobile give you the very best of service. After you get your car, the whole proposition is up to you and the man who sold the car to you.

Don't forget that it is always the bottom dollar that counts.

HOW FAR CAN YOU GO ON $5 BILL IN BIG SIX?

Don Futhey and Geo. Murphy of Studebaker Agency
Will Find Out

With a five dollar bill pasted to each windshield as a total allowance for expenses on the trip, fourteen Big Six Studebaker cars will leave Los Angeles next Tuesday morning, August 22, on an economy run to Lake Arrowhead and return. A car from the Packer Auto company, 245 South Brand, Glendale, will be among the contestants.

The economy run is to be held under the auspices of the Lake Arrowhead Hotel association, says Don Packer. The cars, entered by fourteen Studebaker dealers in Southern California, will be weighed, supplied with gasoline, oil and water early Tuesday morning at the Paul G. Hoffman Studebaker agency, Pico and Figueroa, Los Angeles. The drivers of the cars will be allowed to take no money with them except the five dollar bill pasted on the windshield.

Start at 7 A. M.

At 7 o'clock the Big Sixes will start out. The first scheduled stop is at San Bernardino, where each one will check in to control. They will then drive up Waterman canyon over the switchbacks to Lake Arrowhead. After being received and entertained by the Lake Arrowhead Hotel association the drivers will be taken on a motor cruise of the lake. Late in the afternoon they will start back, completing a circle of the lake. They are expected to check into Los Angeles about 7 p. m.

That part of his allowed five dollars which he has not spent for gasoline and oil, each driver will give to the Salvation Army. The driver of the car which makes the greatest gasoline and oil mileage will be presented with a silver loving cup by the Lake Arrowhead Hotel association.

The Studebaker Big Six entered by the Packer Auto company will be driven by Don E. Futhey and George Murphy of the local organization. Mr. Futhey, who has been with the Studebaker corporation ever since 1912, has high hopes of taking the prize. He states that although it has been estimated that none of the Big Sixes will make less than 15 miles per gallon of gasoline, he hopes to make an even better average.

PARIS TAXI MEN MAY CALL STRIKE

Heavy Tax Imposed Upon
Them Cause of Drivers
Great Grievance

PARIS.—Paris taxidrivers are threatening daily to throw up the throttle and strike.

Paris without its swarm of taxicabs would be unrecognizable. The Paris taxi is conceded to be the cheapest, the rattiest, the noisiest, the speediest in the world. Anything that rolls by gasoline and bears a taximeter is a taxicab in Paris, from the familiar red and green "one lungers" that sometimes run on both cylinders to former cars de luxe that have descended the social scale through having fallen upon hard times.

Should all the taxis in Paris stop suddenly, as the drivers threaten, the silence on the boulevards would become nearly unendurable, crossing the Avenue de l'Opera would cease to be an adventure replete with hair-breadth escapes, and Parisians and tourists would be deprived of their only means of getting anywhere in a hurry.

"The atmosphere of Paris would revert at once back to the last century," commented an old-timer. "Parisian grandfathers would think they had found their youth again."

It is because they object to the heavy tax which they must pay the Government for permission to operate that the taxi-drivers, many of whom own their own cars, threaten to drive their taxis into garages and stay there. Drivers who work for large companies seek a larger share of the proceeds. According to Le Matin, a good driver under the present system makes about $2.50 a day, of which about $1.50 (15 francs) represents his tips.

Hupmobile Reports Sales 60 Pct. Better

Information just released by the Hupmobile sales department is to the effect that July, just ended, was at least 60 per cent greater in production than any previous July in the company's history. The former record for that month having been established during the extraordinary sales year of 1920.

It is further stated, that in spite of the greatly increased production program, all cars built were shipped and the company enters into the current month with no immediate indication of any decrease in its scheduled output.

Chevrolet Agency In New Quarters at Colorado and Orange

C. L. Smith, Chevrolet dealer at West Colorado and Orange street has secured the services of an experienced Chevrolet mechanic and expert to take charge of the service department in his new quarters.

Joe Murphy, who is said to be one of the most experienced Chevrolet men in the country, is to be the new head of the service department. Mr. Murphy started with the Chevrolet company at the factory in Flint, Mich., in 1914, and has been a Chevrolet man ever since.

While in the east, Mr. Murphy installed service systems in sixteen factory branches, and has practically "grown up with the car."

For eighteen months he was at the factory branch in Los Angeles and left there recently. He joined Mr. Smith's forces last Monday, when the local dealer moved into his new sales and service rooms.

In the department of which he has charge, Mr. Murphy plans to specialize in both service and parts. A corps of trained Chevrolet mechanics are to be on hand at all times so that all work will be done correctly and without delay. Any Chevrolet part may also be obtained there, as a full line is to be carried.

All tools and equipment in the new service department will be the standard Chevrolet factory equipment, so that the mechanics will have the proper tools to do any work necessary on a Chevrolet. It is the aim of the Smith company to give real service to Chevrolet owners, and for this reason nothing is being left undone which will make more sure that the work will be perfect.

The show rooms in Mr. Smith's new location are not yet completed, some finishing work remaining to be done, but the shop and service department are complete, and Mr. Smith is decidedly "open for business."

Many Improvements Made on Buicks for New 1923 Models

No single season in recent years has seen so many improvements in Buick cars as the present one, and never has the Buick line been so complete.

Here is a double advantage for the purchaser of a motor car. Among the fourteen fine vehicles that bear the Buick name-plate for the season of 1923, there is a range of selection and a mechanical excellence that insure the utmost of satisfaction.

Buick has long stood apart among motor cars. For twenty years and more Buick has been the world's leading exponent of the valve-in-head principle of motor design, and Buick cars have been everywhere respected for their marked power, endurance, long life and economy.

The present season is one of exceptional progress, for it brings with it changes so general that they improve the operation, or the comfort, or the convenience of every unit in the car, from the engine to the smallest details.

All of these changes are well-considered and have their origin in sound engineering. The engine, for example, is fitted with longer pistons and connecting rods, adding to the smoothness and long wear for which the Buick engine has always been noted. A near rear spring suspension has been devised which is undoubtedly the highest development of the cantilever type yet achieved. The frame, the transmission, the rear axle, the brakes, the bodies and their equipment, each shows the hand of the skilled designer by some new and valuable features.

Better Tires for Less, Says Dealer

"Better tires for less money is our motto," says A. C. Fangman of the Cut Rate Tire Store at 212 West Broadway, "and it means what it says."

The new tire business opened in Glendale last week, and Mr. Fangman says that business is all that could be expected.

"We are carrying, and are going to carry all firsts, no seconds," he says. "Our business is being run with the idea that unless we can save people money on tires, we won't carry them. By buying in large quantities, and getting them direct from the factory, we are able to go under the list price of the tires."

NINTH FAIRVIEW UNIT ON SALE

Hamlin & Hepburn Making Many Independent Home Owners

Hamlin & Hepburn, subdividers of Fairview who are having their opening sale on the Ninth Unit of this popular subdivision, report that sales are already being made very fast in spite of the fact that practically no advertising has been done until today.

They point out that while almost everybody desires to own their own home, in many cases it has been difficult because reasonable terms could not be secured. The terms in the Ninth Unit of Fairview are only $25 cash down and monthly payments of $10 to $15 per month.

This enables almost anybody to purchase a lot for a homestead at prices much lower than can be hoped to prevail in the next year or two.

Mr. Hamlin says that many cases can be referred to in their earlier sales where people purchased lots, having only enough to make the initial payment, and now have property worth from $1000 to $1500. One typical case was about as follows:

A man purchased a lot paying $50 down, which was the initial payment required at that time, put up a small temporary house and today stands about as follows: He has saved 14 months rent at $60, making $840; the enhancement of the value of his lot has added $250; the value of his own labor in putting up the temporary house is $200; making a total of $1290. The result is that on the value of his property, he has just been enabled to borrow enough money from a building and loan association to put up a substantial $2500 house. Fourteen months ago his capital was $50. And he was paying money to the landlord.

Because the value of the lots is such an important factor in the sales price of a house, builders who put up houses in our Tract are able to offer a much better house at lower price than they could anywhere else. Hence the houses that have been built for sale by builders in our Tract, find very ready sale.

There being only 47 lots in the 9th Unit, it is anticipated that they will be closed out very rapidly.

A very fortunate purchase has enabled the prices to be scheduled far below what the prices of subdivisions in this section must necessarily be in the future.

TIRES SLASHED ON WAY TO YOSEMITE

Dealer Tells of Experience In Which Canton Cords Fared Best by Test

Did you ever drive over a road which was so rough and rocky that it cut and slashed your tires to ribbons?

C. H. Montgomery, of the Automobile Tire Company, Store No. 9 at 143 South Brand boulevard, says that a customer of his, who lives in Glendale, had that experience when he drove into the Yosemite this year before the road had been opened for traffic.

When this driver got out of the Yosemite, says Mr. Montgomery, he found that his tires were in much the same shape as though he had driven over a road paved with broken bottles.

Two of the tires, he says, were cords of a popular and highly advertised brand. The going had been so rough, however, that the tread had been slashed up and down and across in all directions, and most of it had been peeled off, leaving a mere shell of a tire. The other two tires, says Mr. Montgomery, were Canton Cords. They had suffered the same abuse as the others, and their treads were similarly gashed. However, the tread had not separated from the body of the tire, and, although it was slashed in innumerable places, it continued to give good service.

"If Cantons compare with what are known as some of the highest grade tires on the market, and outrun them as these did," states Mr. Montgomery, "it is easy to see why they are so popular among Glendale drivers, and why I have never had a complaint on them since I have been here."

"If people have had luck with their tires, they usually tell the world about it. But if some tire steadily runs up the thousands of miles, without giving any trouble, they don't always mention it. No news is good news, and if I never hear a kick about the Cantons, it must be, indeed, an exceptional tire."

How Did Gear Shift Get That Way? One Lever Controls All

A startling example of the difference between motoring today and a quarter of a century ago is recited from personal recollection of one whose native modesty balks at the publication of his name—or perhaps he's afraid his creditors will learn where he is!

"How and why a gear-shift works is one of the best things I know," he declares. "It was about twenty-five years ago when I learned about it, the introduction was forced upon me in lurid New England homespun profanity by a great-uncle who owned an asthmatic one-cylinder car of a make since famous. The gear-shift control consisted of three levers—one for low forward, one for high forward, and one for reverse. The driver had to put the forward gear lever into neutral before taking the reverse lever out of neutral, and vice-versa."

"I left the reverse-gear in mesh when I started forward in low. There was a terrific grinding and groaning, several smart, snapping sounds, and the gear-box contents were ruined."

"A resultful discussion by 'authorities' brought about the various shifts on one lever, without danger of engaging two at the same time."

Erle W. Bletcher to Open Willard Agency In Eagle Rock City

Erle W. Bletcher of Bletcher's Auto Electrical company at 125 North Maryland is soon to extend his autoelectric business to another field. As soon as he can secure a satisfactory location, he is to open a Willard Battery sales and service station in Eagle Rock.

He has already signed a contract with the Willard company, by which he is appointed distributor for the Willard batteries in Eagle Rock. At present he is a Glendale sub-dealer.

Eagle Rock people, says Mr. Bletcher, have been eager to have a Willard station opened there, and he expects his proposed business to meet with success. Building operations are to start as soon as a favorable location can be found and secured in Eagle Rock. It is probable that Mr. Bletcher will build in connection with a gasoline service station which is about to be built there.

Motor Trucks Used to Move Fruit Crop In California Strike

One of the ways in which motor trucks at this time in particular are demonstrating their value to southern California is in the transportation of fruits and vegetables. Practically all of the fruit now being brought to market or taken to canneries is transported by truck. This is the beginning of the season, which will continue till about the middle of October.

In some instances trucks are driven into the orchards to take on their loads, but the customary procedure is for pickers to fill the boxes and then these are removed to the roadside for loading onto the trucks. Not only is a great deal more fruit being handled as the result of motor transportation but growers receive better prices as well. When horses were depended upon to haul the fruit, more time was necessary, and as the result there was much more waste than now. Some canners are employing trucks to haul canned fruits to warehouses and in many instances delivery is made to Los Angeles harbor.

Oakland Car Goes Far On Gallon of Gas

The Oakland car covered the total 2111 miles in the recent Michigan Pike association tour around Lake Michigan on ninety-seven gallons of gasoline or an average of 21.76 miles per gallon. This information is contained in a report of the entire trip by E. W. Lyons of the Oakland Motor Car company.

"At the end of the first thousand miles, I drained the oil from the crankcase," reads the report in part. "Before draining I measured the amount in the crank case and was unable to add any to bring it to the level mark. In other words, the level gauge showed full at the end of 1000 miles. At the end of the trip I measured the oil and was unable to add any. The gauge registered full."

"During the entire trip it was not necessary to add any water, and, in fact, I did not have the radiator cap off during the entire trip until the finish, at which time I was able to add three pints of water to the radiator."

"It was not necessary at any time to make any mechanical adjustment on the motor or tighten any part of the chassis or car."

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor:
The following is a schedule of my average day. I never have any breakfast and, if possible, no lunch; when impossible, just some green salad with but little dressing and fruit for dessert. I avoid as much as possible foods containing fats and starch. In addition to this, I exercise a good deal by playing golf, riding horseback, dancing, etc. But the two main things which I do to reduce are:

1. Smoking at least eight cigarettes every day, inhaling them.
2. For three days in succession I go on a liquidless diet; no water, coffee, soup, etc. On the fourth day I drink two glasses of anything I want. The fifth day I start once again on the liquidless diet. It is because of the fact that I am not feeling as "peppy" as usual that I am writing for your opinion of my methods. I neglected to say that I never sleep over six hours a night and never during the day. . . Mrs. B. M."

So you are not so "peppy" as usual! Well, well! I do hope that when you interview St. Peter, which you will do soon, if you continue the course you are following, you will not tell him that you followed his near-name sake's course on reduction and that that is why you are calling on him prematurely.

Great Allah, Girl! Where did you get such an idea of reducing? Certainly not from my course. No wonder you are not feeling as peppy as usual. In the first place, smoking is harmful enough even when you do not inhale. In the second place, in the course you are following you are not only starving your fat, but you are starving your whole system as well. To reduce your fat and your vitality and strength at the same time is pernicious. You have some fats and carbohydrates for your energy food, and you must have sufficient protein to supply your repair needs, and you must have sufficient liquid to supply your water needs.

If you missed the instructions that we gave in the column, send a self-addressed envelope with four cents in stamps to me, and I will send them. (We have been out of them, but the new supply is ready now.)

I sincerely hope that this will reach you on this mundane sphere. "Dear Doctor:
"Oh, Boy! The joy of finding the help I so much needed in your articles. I started with the first day and I have succeeded beyond my fondest dreams. I have reduced from 250 to 243—45 pounds—since I started about ten weeks ago. I will keep on until I have reached my normal weight, which should be 155 pounds. I feel better than I have in a long time. Sleep better and can work all day and not be half as tired as I was before at noon. I find I must eat about 1300 Calories daily to reduce two pounds a week. . . I certainly am another one of your big boosters—Mrs. B. B."

I give this letter to show that if you follow a scientific course for reduction, you do not lose your "pep," but you feel better in every way. However, I would not advise such a rapid loss as this ordinarily. You see, Mrs. B. B. has 300 Calories more a day than we advise for the average person, which shows that she is getting a good deal of active work and does not need to drop as low as 1,200 Calories a day. She tells us she sleeps better. Most courses on reduction advise you to sleep as little as possible. I do not advise that at all. I advise you to sleep all that you need to in order to feel well, even to the regulation eight hours.

Write again, Mrs. B. B., when you get down to 200 pounds. It may be wise for you to rest a week or so from your reduction before you get to that figure. Go back to maintenance diet for two weeks or so, then begin again on your reduction regime.

Heart Disease. We have a supply of the pamphlet on heart disease issued by the New York Association for the Prevention and Relief of Heart Disease. Those of you who are interested may have one of these pamphlets by sending a stamped, addressed envelope to me through this paper.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE GREATEST GIFT

Why aren't we kinder?
There are few people in the world, not more than one in a hundred thousand, who can give happiness and benefit to a great many people by doing some special kind of work superlatively well—writing, singing, organizing, inventing, acting, ruling, healing, and so on.

But to every one of these there are, at least, 99,999 of us who can give no greater gift to the world than the gift of being kinder. Then why aren't we kinder?
There are so many simple ways, negative and positive, to be kind. A ready, happy smile is a kindness.

The habit of remembering what people are interested in and giving them a chance to talk about it is a kindness.

Tell Her So.
The habit of appreciation is a great kindness. I wish we had some kind of Happiness Metre to measure, the happiness that is given when a husband tells his wife how much he liked that special good dinner she planned for him, or how well she looks in her new gown; or when a wife tells her husband how well he looks in his new suit (oh, yes, men care almost as much about these things!), or how deeply she appreciates the sacrifice he makes in going without a car so that the boy may have his college course. I fancy we should find that the aggregate of such happiness was larger than many millions of money would buy.

The habit of repeating to people nice things we hear said about them is a great kindness.

The habit of controlling that temptation to be irritable in the bosom of our families which seems to assail almost all human beings when they are tired and nervous is one of the greatest of negative kindnesses. I don't believe there is a vice in the world which causes a greater amount of unhappiness than the daily pin pricks of uncontrolled irritability.

Kind Criticism.
The habit of trying to criticize helpfully instead of finding fault is a kindness.

Small acts of courtesy come under the head of what I mean by kindness.

The habit of consideration and respect for the rights of others comes under the head of kindness.

Writing that letter to the person who would like so much to hear from us is a great kindness.

Don't Have This Remorse.
Why aren't we kinder? It's so simple to be kind and it means so much.

And of all the regrets that tear at our hearts when we look back at a chapter of our life to which finis has been written, there is none, I think so unbearable as the thought, "If I had only been kinder." I wish I had been kinder.

So many gods, so many creeds, so many paths that wind and wind, While just the art of being kind Is all this sad world needs."

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

SUNDAY DINNER MENU
Sardine Canape
Chicken Fricassee
Mashed Potatoes—Corn Fritters
Lorraine Salad
Raspberry Ice with Peaches—Marguerites
Coffee

Sardine Canape—Drain the oil from large sardines and dip in fine cracker crumbs. Place on baking sheet and bake to a delicate brown in a hot oven. Transfer to rounds of hot toast. Squeeze a few drops of lemon juice on each sardine and serve with a slice of peeled ripe tomato on each round. Garnish with sprigs of parsley.

Chicken Fricassee—After cleaning and singeing chicken, wipe with cloth wrung out of cold water and cut into joints. Put in stew pot, cover with boiling water and cook until tender and reduce water to one pint. Remove chicken, drain, dredge with flour, salt and pepper and brown in hot butter or salt pork fat. Put chicken on hot platter and serve with cream gravy.

Corn Fritters—Mix two cups of cooked corn, which has been grated from the cob, or put through the food chopper, if canned corn is used, with one-and one-half teaspoons salt, dash pepper, two tablespoons milk, three-fourths cup cracker crumbs and one egg well beaten. Beat up well and drop by spoonfuls in deep hot fat, or saute in hot bacon fat. Brown nicely, drain on brown paper and sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Lorraine Salad—Shred two heads of lettuce very fine; chop two onions fine and cut one cold cooked beet into cubes. Make layer of lettuce, toss together with onion and beet, marinate with French dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with mayonnaise dressing and garnish with slices of olives.

Raspberry Ice—Add one cup of sugar to one quart of red raspberries. Cover and let them stand in cool place three hours. Mash and squeeze through double cheesecloth. Add one cup cold water, one tablespoon each of lemon juice and strain into freezer can, also add one tablespoon orange juice. Pack and freeze, using three parts finely crushed ice to one part rock salt. (If canned raspberries are used, add as much water as raspberry juice and sugar to taste). When ready to serve, fill sherbet glasses with sliced peaches, sprinkle with sugar and set a mound of raspberry ice on top of each portion. Garnish with whole ripe berries.

Marguerites—Boil the juice of one large orange with one cup sugar to soft boil stage. Add one dozen marshmallows, cut into small pieces, and let stand until melted. Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff and add to mixture, mix thoroughly and beat until it stiffens. Then add one cup of chopped nuts, a few drops of lemon juice and one-half cup coconut. Spread on saltines and bake in slow oven until a delicate brown.

Book Reviews

A book which will make the reader love nature the more for having read is the description of "The Wild Heart," by Emma-Lindsay Squier. In addition to the interest this book is attracting on its merits it has a local interest in the fact that Miss Squier was formerly a resident of Glendale, having resided on North Louise street for several years.

Gene Stratton Porter says that through this book men and women may learn how any one with a sympathetic heart devoid of fear may fraternize with the wild and that it also may do something toward teaching parents that all children are not alike and cannot possibly be run through the same groove.

Miss Squier was formerly a Los Angeles newspaper reporter. During an interview with Basil King he recognized her as an unusual personality. Knowing that every human heart is responsive to the appeal of nature he urged her to write the stories she told him, and "The Wild Heart" is the result. In this book are found stories of seagulls, rabbits, dogs, bears, chickens, seals, quail, hawks a lioness and other animals and fowl. It is a book which should interest old and young alike.

These stories of wild birds and animals are told in a most interesting manner, telling of the various animal natures and the habits of these creatures of the wild, and how to make pets of them. The

THE DECLINE OF THE CORSET

From reliable statistics, I am informed that only five per cent of the women wear corsets nowadays. Recently the Corset Club of a large middle western city, composed of manufacturers, salesmen and designers of corsets, held what they called a "save-the-corset symposium" to discuss this situation. Quoting Mme. Alla Ripley, president of the Fashion Art League of America, "more and more women are giving up corsets." Personally, I know of few women who wear them at all. If corsets are being eliminated it is because they are no longer needed by the other 95 per cent. Many things have contributed to this corset waning era—the college, the woman in business, the present day's loose-fitting, sensible styles. Especially in the colleges, where athletics almost vie with studies, "stays" are considered absolutely detrimental to bodily freedom, ease and grace of movement. And "stays" are equally as bad, and as much of a hindrance, for the business woman whose office day usually consists in bending over a desk, playing the typewriter keys, or stooping over filing cabinets; and whose daily walk to and from the office or morning and evening dumbbell exercises, constitutes her sole athletic achievements.

It was not so many years ago that women had to wear corsets because of the weight of their clothes. A seven or eleven gored skirt required at least two others under it, to say nothing of the heavy flannel one for warmth. Today, most women confine themselves to three under-garments, a skirt, knickers, and a chemise—mere wisps of silk or fine batiste.

And the outer garments hang straight and loose. So now women keep themselves in condition, physically so that their muscles will hold them up, as they are meant to do, without having to rely on the constricting support of "stays." Corsets are for the elderly or the matured. And even they may keep themselves trim and neat looking by wearing the brassiere, or bandeau as it is now called.

Reader—The first thing to do when manicuring is to soak the finger tips in hot soapy water, thus softening the cuticle around the nail. With the point of the file loosen all the skin that has grown over the base of the nail. Next, clip off all this dead skin until there is a well defined line all around the base and sides of the nails. A tinted cream is then rubbed into them until they have taken all they can absorb. Remove the surplus and polish each nail with the chamois buffer.

It does not pay to make manicure preparations as so little material is consumed in the work and the trade articles do very well. In giving yourself a manicure, it pays to get one of the many preparations for softening the cuticle, as that is the most tedious part of the work and often impossible to accomplish unless one can manipulate both hands equally well.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

They Say That

Living to be 108, Samuel de Grosseky of Chicago, passed into eternity, leaving some good maxims behind him. He advised his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren to be temperate in eating and drinking and in all habits; and "above all else be faithful to your religion."

Perhaps no other course in life would contribute so measurably and surely to longevity as would the simple formula given by this aged man. Temperance in eating, drinking, and in all things—this is the very quintessence of health-promotion. Many a life is wrecked by overeating, or eating improper, indigestible food at unreasonable hours. Many a life has been ruined by excessive drinking. Many a life has been ruined by intemperance in various forms. At the very foundation of long life must be temperance and moderation.

"Above all else be faithful to your religion." There is that in religion which promotes longevity. It produces serenity of spirit, equanimity, tranquility, lively hope, peace and sense of security. These things react upon the body and foster its health. The religious person has in his or her religion a panacea, as it were, for bodily ills.

It's A Fact

At an auction sale President Harding's picture brought $46 against $26 for that of former President Wilson. The sale was held in Staunton, Virginia, the birthplace of Mr. Wilson.

Legacies amounting to 5,000,000 francs were left to various French scientific organizations by the will of the late Prince Albert of Monaco. Among them were the following: A million francs each to the French Academy of Science, the Academy of Medicine, the Institute of Paleontology in Paris and the Oceanographical Institute. A million francs was also left to the Oceanographical Museum at Monaco.

Now~the Modern Homes

with their uniqueness of design and conveniences ~ ~

~ the outgrowth of time, thought and persistent efforts,

In no other department of modern advancement are improvements more noticeable than in our homes. Especially is this true of the interior room arrangements in which every conceivable time and labor saving conveniences are included, designed and constructed as a part of the home at the time it is built, permitting of smaller rooms which lessens our home investment and adds materially to their attractiveness.

The exteriors too have undergone transformations, and to such an extent that California architecture is adopted everywhere. In some states without changes, in others only minor changes are made to meet with building conditions. The West has never feared to deviate from the set lines of what is termed true architecture; at first our actions were criticized, we were censured for our boldness, but this brought out individual ideas and in such great variety that today the West is headquarters for modern, distinctive home building ideas, suggestions and plans.

"Evolution of Western Architecture"

First came the bungalow which name and idea was derived from INDIA, and soon after its invasion into the West, became nationally known as the "California Bungalow." This creation is and always will be a favorite with home builders.

Next came the "Swiss Chalet," with its broad overhanging eaves, landscape windows and spacious appearance; this, too, is still a popular architecture where there is plenty of room for large front lawn or with trees or mountains for a background.

Our third masterpiece was the "Colonial Bungalow," and because of its white or creamy painted exterior, red or green stained roof, its beauty of line and color schemes combined with our ever-green trees produced an effect that at once won the hearts and admiration of home builders; never will builders of attractive homes allow this charming home idea to be forgotten.

The very last words in modernized foreign architecture are the Spanish, Italian and English. All three of these are present day favorites and are incorporated into the smallest and most inexpensive as well as the most pretentious homes.

While all of these ideas were imported, only such details were adopted as to meet with our building conditions. All were modernized to care for our understanding of what was necessary to constitute ideal homes.

On this page we are featuring four of these home building ideas, portraying ideal samples of the "California Bungalow," "Swiss Chalet," "Colonial Bungalow" and "Spanish." The floor plans accompanying them show arrangements that cannot help but appeal to you, and after giving them the consideration they deserve, if there is additional information we can furnish you please feel at liberty to advise with the home building editor, care this paper.

The Riddle of the Frozen Flame

By M.E. & T.W. HANSEW
Copyright, 1922 by Doubleday, Page & Company.

"Sir Nigel, sir—I—"
"When did Collins go?"
"Arl past eight, sir!" Borkins voice trembled a little. "And believe me or not, sir, I did my best to persuade Collins from doing such an extremely dangerous thing. I begged 'im not to think o' doin' it, but Collins is pig-headed, if you'll forgive the word, sir, and he was bent upon gettin' papers. I swear, sir, I ain't 'ad anything to do with it, and when 'e didn't come back last night before I went to bed I said to myself, 'Collins 'as dropped into a public 'ouse and made a—' a ass of himself,' I said. And thought no more about it, expectin' he'd be in later. But 'is bed 'asn't been slept in, and there's no sign of 'im anywhere." Merriton twisted 'round upon his heel and looked at the man keenly for a moment.

"I'm fond of Collins, Borkins," he said abruptly. "We've known each other a long time. I shouldn't like anything to happen to the chap while he's in my service, that's all. Get out now and make enquiries in every direction. Have Dimmock go down to the village. And ransack every public house round about. If you can't find any trace of him, his lips lightened for a moment. "Then I'll fetch for the police. I'll get the finest detective in the land on this thing. I'll get Cleek himself if it costs me every penny I possess, but I'll have him traced somehow. Those devilish flames are taking too heavy a toll. I've reached the end of my tether!"

He waved Borkins out with an imperious hand, and went on with his dressing, his heart sick. What if Collins had met with the same fate as Dacre Wynne? What were those fiendish flames, anyhow, that men disappeared completely, leaving neither sight nor sound? Surely there was some brain clever enough to probe the mystery of them.

"If Collins doesn't turn up this morning," he told himself as he shaved with a very unsteady hand, "I'll go straight up to London by the twelve o'clock train and straight to Scotland Yard. But I'll find him—damn it, I'll find him!"

But no trace of James Collins could be found. He was gone—completely. No one had seen him, no one but Borkins, had known of his probable journey across the Fens at night-time, and Borkins excused himself upon the plea that Collins hadn't actually said he was going that way. He had simply vanished. As Dacre Wynne had vanished, as Will Myers and all that long list of others had vanished. Eaten up by the flames—and in Twentieth Century England! But the fact remained, Dacre Wynne had disappeared, and now James Collins had followed him. And a new flame shone among the others, a newer, brighter flame than any before. Merriton said to himself, that was the devilish part of it. His own eyes had seen the thing appear, just as he had seen it upon the night when Dacre Wynne had vanished. But he didn't shoot at it this time. Instead, he packed a small bag, ran over and said good-bye to 'Toinette and told her he was going to have a day in town, but told her nothing else. Then he took the twelve o'clock to town. A taxi whisked him to Scotland Yard.

CHAPTER X—And The Lady

And this was the extraordinary chain of events which brought young Merriton into Mr. Narkom's office that day while Cleek was sitting there, and on being introduced as "Mr. Headland" heard the story from Sir Nigel's lips.

As he came to the last "And no trace of either body has ever been found," Cleek suddenly switched round in his chair and exclaimed: "An extraordinary riddle, altogether!" Meeting Merriton's astonished eyes with his own keen ones, he went on: "The flames, of course, are a plant of some sort. That goes without saying. But the thing to find out is what they're there for to hide. When you've discovered that, you'll have got half way to the truth, and the rest will follow as a matter of course. What's that, Mr. Narkom? Yes, I'll take the case, Sir Nigel. My name's Cleek—Hamilton Cleek, at your service. Now let's hear the thing all over again, please. I've one or two questions I'd like to ask."

Merriton left Scotland Yard an hour later, lighter in heart than he had been for some time—ever since, in fact, Dacre Wynne's tragic disappearance had cast such a gloom over his life's happiness. He had unburdened his soul to Cleek—absolutely. And Cleek had treated the confession with a decent sort of respect which was enough to win any chap over to him. Merriton in fact had found in Cleek a friend as well as a detective. He had been so thoroughly satisfied with his general get-up and appearance, that Merriton had heard of his peculiar birthright, and felt that the man himself was capable of almost anything. Certainly he proved full of sympathetic understanding.

Cleek understood the ground upon which he stood with regard to his friendship with Dacre Wynne. He had, with a wonderful intuition, sensed the peculiar influence of the man upon Nigel—this by look and gesture rather than by use of tongue and speech. And Cleek had already drawn his own conclusions. He heard of Nigel's engagement to Antoinette Brellier, and of how Dacre Wynne had taken it, heard, indeed, all the little personal things which Merriton had never told to any man, and certainly hadn't intended telling to this one.

But that was Cleek's way. He secured a man's confidence and by that method got at the truth. A bond of friendship had sprung up between them, and Cleek and Mr. Narkom had promised that before a couple of days were over, they would put in an appearance at Fetchworth, and look into things more closely. It was agreed that they were to pose as friends of Sir Nigel, since Cleek felt that in that way he could pursue his investigations unsuspected, and make more headway in the case.

But there was one thing that Nigel hadn't spoken of, and that was the very foolish and ridiculous action of his upon that fateful evening of the dinner party. Only he and Doctor Bartholomew—who was as close-mouthed as the devil himself over some things—knew of the incident of the pistol-shooting, so far as Merriton was aware. And the young man was too ashamed of the whole fiasco to tell it to any one else to share in the absurd little secret. It could have been heard upon the affair, and if 'Toinette got to hear of it, well, he'd look all sorts of a fool, and possibly be treated to a sermon—a prospect which he did not relish in the slightest.

As he left the Yard and turned into the keen autumn sunshine, he lifted his face to the skies and thanked the stars that he had come to London after all and placed things in proper hands. There was nothing now for him to do but to go back to Merriton Towers and as expeditiously as possible make up for the day lost from 'Toinette.

So, after a visit to a big confectionery in Regent Street, and another to a little jeweller in Piccadilly, Merriton got into the train at Waterloo, carrying his parcels with a happy heart. He got out at Fetchworth station three hours later, hailed the only hack that stood there—for he had forgotten to apprise any one at the Towers of his quick return—and drove straightway to Withersby Hall.

'Toinette was at the window as he swung open the great gate. When she saw him she darted away and came flying down the drive to meet him.

The contents of the various packages made her happy as a child, and it was some time after they reached the house that Nigel asked some question concerning her uncle.

Her face clouded ever so little, and for the first time Nigel noticed that she was pale.

"Uncle has gone away for a few days," she replied. "He said it was business—what would you? But I told him I should be lonely in this great house, and I—I am so frightened at those horrible little flames that I can't sleep when I am alone, Nigel. I am a baby I know, but I cannot help it. It makes me feel so afraid!"

As was usual in moments of emotion with 'Toinette, her accent became more pronounced. He stroked her hair with a gentle hand, as though she were in very truth the child she tried not to be.

"Poor little one! I wish I could come across and put up here for the night. Hang conventions, anyway! And then, too, I have to make ready for some visitors who will be down tomorrow or the next day."

"Visitors, Nigel?"

"Yes, dear, I've a couple of friends coming to spend a short time with me. Chaps I met in London today."

"What did you go up for, Nigel—really?"

"He colored a little, and was thankful that she turned away at that moment to straighten the collar of her blouse. He didn't like lying to the woman he was going to marry. But he had given his word to Cleek.

"Oh," he said off-handedly, "I went to my tailor's. And then stepped in to buy you that little trinket and your precious choos, and came along home again. Met these fellows on my way across town. Rather nice chaps—one of 'em, anyhow. Used to know some friends of friends of his, girl called Alice Lorne. And the other one happened to be there so I asked him, too. They won't worry you much, 'Toinette. They're frightfully keen about the country, and will be sure to go out shootin' and snuffin' round like these town johnnies always do when they get in places like this."

Well, as Mr. Brellier isn't here I suppose I'd better be making my way home again. Wish we were married, 'Toinette. There'd be no more of these everlasting separations then. No more nightmares for you, little one. Only happiness and joy, and—ah—beats of other rippin' things. Never mind, we'll make it soon, won't we?"

During the 19 months that we were at war, 91,000 persons were killed on our highways—almost twice the number of Americans killed in battle or who died of wounds.

Would Rather Be Floorwalker for New York Store Than Count in Spain

—Copyright Unserwood & Underwood.

"I'd rather be a floorwalker in America than a nobleman in Seville," so said Edmund Alfonso de Jimenez, 36, reputed count of Spain, when reporters flocked to a New York department store to talk with him about his marriage, July 8, to Miss Flora Louise Nelson, primary grade school teacher of Union Hill, N. J. Photo shows Alfonso de Jimenez and his bride, photographed after the reputed count finished his labors as a floorwalker for the day.

VACUUM TUBES IN TRANSMISSION

In the earlier use of vacuum tubes it was found that tubes to have ionization by collision because a larger plate current can be obtained, but there are two difficulties which have proved so great that tubes are now usually made to have only a pure electron flow. One of these difficulties is a rapid deterioration of the filament when a large plate current flows. The positively charged parts of the atoms are driven violently against the negatively charged filament and since they are much more massive than electrons, this bombardment, so to speak, actually seems to wear away the face of the filament. Another disadvantage of tubes of poor vacuum is that too large a battery voltage may cause a blue glow discharge. This action applies more particularly to the efficiency of the "three element tube," described in the following installment.

The tube we have had under discussion was first used in radio practice and after its inventor is called the "Fleming valve." The Fleming valve was originally used as a detector, but has been replaced by the three element tube because the latter has proved so much more sensitive, and as previously described can be utilized for a variety of purposes.

However, before proceeding to the modern vacuum tube it is well to consider that types of two electrode tubes are most useful in another field of electrical work. One type, known as the "Kenotron," developed by the General Electric Company, has a higher vacuum than the Fleming valve and is made in larger dimensions. It is used as rectifier of currents of high voltage but low frequency. It changes alternating current into a pulsating current all in one direction. Small currents, well below one ampere, are rectified by these tubes, and power up to several kilowatts can be handled even if the applied voltage exceeds 25,000. Another type, known as the "Fungar rectifier," is utilized for charging storage batteries from a 110 volt alternating circuit. This type contains rarefied argon gas and relatively large currents are produced mainly through ionization by collision in the manner before described.

The tube we have had under discussion was first used in radio practice and after its inventor is called the "Fleming valve." The Fleming valve was originally used as a detector, but has been replaced by the three element tube because the latter has proved so much more sensitive, and as previously described can be utilized for a variety of purposes.

SECTIONAL RECEIVING SETS SOMETHING NEW.

The sectional idea in receiving sets has been exploited by only a few manufacturers, hence this latest addition is particularly welcome, as it embodies several novel features. The panel can be purchased section by section as desired or with the four divisions at once. These are made up in units as follows: 1, tuner detector; 2, two step audio frequency amplifier; 3, case for A storage battery; 4, case for loud speaker. The last is made to take the Westinghouse vocacola. The units are of uniform size and present a pleasing appearance. The tuner is made to operate as simply as possible. It is regenerative and licensed under the Armstrong patent. Use is made of an inductive coil with wave range of 160 to 600 meters.

Music Club Plans to Aid Entertaining Mrs. Theo. Thomas

The officers and a large number of the Glendale Music club, of which Mrs. Mattison B. Jones is president, are planning to attend the entertainment for Mrs. Theodore Thomas, who will be visiting in Los Angeles during the week of September 4 and for which elaborate preparations are being made. Mrs. Thomas is the president emerita and founder of the National Federation of Music clubs and the widow of Theodore Thomas, who founded and conducted the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Thomas will celebrate her seventieth birthday while in Los Angeles and a luncheon and informal reception is planned in her honor in the palm room of the Ambassador at 1 o'clock Tuesday, September 5. Mrs. Warren Roberts, 617 East Elk avenue, will make reservations for those wishing to attend.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BUTTERFLY.

Once upon a time as Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane were on their way to visit Mrs. Wibblewobble, the duck lady, the bunny gentleman and his muskrat lady housekeeper passed through a field of blossoms. There were many kinds of flowers, some like daisies, some like buttercups and some very long and deep, like morning glories.

"Oh, what lovely flowers!" exclaimed Nurse Jane. "I must pick a bunch and take them to Mrs. Wibblewobble. She loves pretty blossoms!"

So the muskrat lady picked the flowers and the diamond ring that Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy wore on one paw glittered in the sunlight.

"My! Your diamond ring makes my eyes hurt!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll just hop a little to one side and wait until you have finished picking the flowers."

"All right," agreed Nurse Jane. "Perhaps you may have an adventure all by yourself."

"Perhaps," said the bunny gentleman. So Nurse Jane gathered the posies and Mr. Longears hopped around by himself so the glittering diamond would not shine in his eyes.

"Well, I have flowers enough now," called the muskrat lady after a while. "We had better keep on to Mrs. Wibblewobble's house, Wiggily, my dear."

"All right," answered the bunny, but just as he was about to hop to Nurse Jane's side, all of a sudden, a gentle voice asked:

"Oh, I wonder if you could spare time to help me? I am in such trouble, and I can't help myself!"

"Why, I think so," answered the bunny gentleman with a low and polite bow of his tall, silk nose—oh, listen to me, would you! I am in a pretty good fix. Who are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I am Butterfly," was the answer. "In flying about from flower to flower, every sunlit hour, to gather honey, which is what I live on, like the bees, I caught one of my wings on a thorn, and I can't pull it loose. If I pull too hard I may tear my wing, and then I could never fly again."

"Oh, that would be too bad!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Of course, I'll help you," and the bunny hopped to where a gorgeous red and black Butterfly was caught on a thorn bush.

"Come on, Wiggily. Why don't you hop along?" called Nurse Jane at the other side of the field. "Why are you waiting? We'll be late!"

"Wait until I help this Butterfly," begged the bunny. And then, tenderly, carefully, Uncle Wiggily broke away the thorn so the beautiful insect could free its wing and flutter on to gather more honey from the flowers.

"Thank you Uncle Wiggily," murmured the Butterfly. "You did me a great favor, and if ever I can do one for you, or Nurse Jane, I shall be most happy."

"Pray do not mention it," spoke the bunny, as he hopped on to join the muskrat lady.

"As if a Butterfly could ever do us a favor!" laughed Nurse Jane when Uncle Wiggily told her what had happened.

But Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane had not taken more than a half dozen hops before the muskrat lady suddenly gave a loud scream.

"What's the matter?" called Uncle Wiggily. "Do you see a bad snake?"

"No," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "but I have lost my lovely diamond ring! I must have dropped it while gathering flowers!"

"Oh, that is too bad!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I'll help you look for it."

He and Nurse Jane looked all around in the place where the muskrat lady had picked the blossoms, but no ring was to be found, and Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy felt very sad.

"What is the matter? Perhaps I can help you," spoke a gentle voice, when the bunny and Nurse Jane were about to give up. "Have you lost anything?"

"Nurse Jane's diamond ring," answered Uncle Wiggily.

"I'll get some of my friends, and help you search for it," went on the voice, and the Butterfly fluttered in the sunlight.

"How can you and your friends find a lost diamond ring?" Nurse Jane wanted to know.

We can even suck honey from a morning glory, which is a very deep flower indeed. I will call my friends, and we will flit around thrusting our tongues down into all the flowers. For your diamond ring may have dropped into a blossom."

"That's what I think," said Nurse Jane. "But there are so many flowers, and Uncle Wiggily and I never could get to the bottoms of them all, that I'm afraid I'll never find my ring."

"We'll help," said the Butterfly. He called to thousands of his friends, and soon the field was like a rainbow with all the butterflies flitting from flower to flower. They thrust their long, curling tongues down into the throats of the open flowers, one after another, never stopping to sip honey, and at last a blue Butterfly cried:

"I have found it! The diamond ring lies down in this morning glory flower like a drop of dew sparkling in the sun!" And, surely enough, there was Nurse Jane's lost ring!

"Oh, thank you!" cried the muskrat lady. "I never knew, before, that butterflies could do favors! Thank you, ever so much!" Then she and Uncle Wiggily went on to Mrs. Wibblewobble's with the flowers, the butterflies gathered honey and the diamond sparkled brighter than ever on Nurse Jane's paw.

And if the paper boy doesn't get all wet in the rain and come apart like a paper bag when it falls into the bath tub, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the tree toad.

A new Home—a new World

Even though the coast be rockbound and bleak, love and home makes it blossom like a rose.

More than three centuries ago a body of men and women left their native land and came to the bleak, rock-bound shores of New England to found real homes for themselves. They endured untold privations, but they succeeded.

Today, under fairer skies, and under infinitely more favorable circumstances, men and women are building or buying their own homes, and enjoying that measure of love and peace and happiness that is lacking when one has to live in a rented house, subject to the heavy cost and great inconveniences of frequent moves.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING ALONG THIS LINE? Maybe you have feared to make the venture; but be assured, "nothing ventured, nothing won." Every dollar put into a home of your own is that much of an asset which no one can take away from you without your consent.

We know all the problems of the home builder. Our Photographic Home Building Service contains thousands of dwellings, from which you can easily select exactly the one you want. We have spared no money in fitting ourselves to be a real assistance to you. Consult us and be convinced—and then start on the road to success and happiness by planning and building your own home.

German Birth Rate Higher Than French

PARIS. — Three Germans are born for every Frenchman, claims Gustave Herve, writing in L'Homme Libre, and basing his statement on French population figures just published for the first three months of 1922.

According to Herve the population of France is decreasing 200,000 a year.

Out of twenty departments reported on for January, February and March, 1922, eighteen show a serious preponderance of deaths over births.

Herve points out at present basis the number of men coming into military service each year now being estimated at 250,000, the classes which will come to serve in 1931 will not exceed in number 225,000, and in 1934 140,000.

Meanwhile Germany, with a birth rate exceeding a death rate by 700,000, according to Herve, already has made up the difference in her population occasioned by the loss of Alsace-Lorraine

VITRIOL FLOWS IN HOT FIGHT FOR GOVERNMENT

Premier Poincare Bears the Brunt of Abuse Heaped on French Officials

By Frank E. Mason.
For International Justice.
PARIS, Aug. 19.—Fundamental economic differences, personal hatreds, dramatic clashes between points of view utterly irreconcilable, outcroppings of antagonism that were necessarily silenced during the war, bitter vituperation, scenes of wild enthusiasm in the Chamber of Deputies, alternating with denunciatory speeches equally Latin—go to make up an impressionistic picture of the political fight now being waged for and against the present administration in France.

On the one hand is the administration itself—or "government," as they call it in Europe—headed by the Premier, Raymond Poincare, and backed by a substantial but varying majority in the chamber.

On the other hand are the opposition parties—the "left," their extreme views expressed by the communists, and their bitter hatred of Poincare recently culminating in a dramatic accusation that he and his followers were responsible for the outbreak of the war in 1914.

Vitriol are the lampoons launched against Monsieur Poincare in this campaign by the communist leaders on the floor of the Chamber and in the columns of their morning daily L'Humanite, and their afternoon newspaper, L'Internationale.

The Premier is soubriqueted "Poincare la Guerre," implying that he was of the war, part and parcel—in other words, the cause of it. Often he is ironically dubbed "King of France."

Accusation is made by the communists that Poincare, during his Presidency at the time the war started, entered into underhanded dealings with the Russian Government and that he forced the war to protect certain interests in Russia. Charge is also made that Poincare displayed cowardice in 1914 when he left Paris, taking the Government with him.

Poincare has not been idle against these attacks. His first move was a counter-offensive. He has laid before the Chamber a project to deprive Deputies Marcel Cachin and Vaillant-Couturier of their Parliamentary immunity. This would mean that these two communists would be subject to trial in the French courts, and M. Poincare has promised to see that they will be prosecuted. The charges will be unparliamentary behavior, or something similar.

This attack on the Premier and his followers to curb the rough-tongued radicals was thwarted, at least temporarily. Claim had been made that the two communist leaders had published an editorial "leader" in one of their journals libelously attacking Poincare and insulting the French Government. It was understood that the prosecution of Cachin and Vaillant-Couturier was to be based upon this article signed by the two.

The morning after the threat had been made, L'Humanite appeared with a reprint of the article. It was signed with several dozen names, many of them influential labor leaders.

To continue action against the two deputies at that time would have meant taking action against every one of the men who signed the article! For the time Poincare was blocked. But official circles intimate that the attack on the parliamentary immunity of Cachin and Vaillant-Couturier will be fought out regardless.

Meanwhile, the Premier has played another trump card. His opportunity came through the trifling matter of a picture posted. Cachin and Vaillant-Couturier had seized upon this postal card, which portrayed Poincare and Myron T. Herrick, United States Ambassador to France, at the ceremony of presentation of the United States Congressional Medal to the city of Verdun. The communists satirically that Poincare, standing over the grave of an unknown soldier, was grinning sardonically.

"You have insulted not only me but the representative of the United States Government!" he shouted. "Down with columniators! Any one can see that Mr. Herrick and I are not smiling in the picture. We are squinting to avoid the rays of the sun!"

The Premier then demanded an official interpellation on the subject of the responsibility for the war. This interpellation gave Rene Viviani, who was Premier during the Poincare Presidency, opportunity to defend his colleague in a fiery speech, in which he recalled the events of 1914 and sought to establish the mobilization of Germany as the true starting point of hostilities.

The Chamber cheered itself hoarse.

GLENDALE BRANCH OF SECURITY IS ESTABLISHED

First National and First Saving Banks Taken Over Next Monday

The Glendale branch of the Security Trust & Savings bank will open its doors for business Monday morning at the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, marking the completion of the merger proceedings by which the former First National bank and the First Savings bank have been taken into the greater institution.

The change makes no marked difference in the personnel, nor in the local identity of the institution. R. F. Kitterman, who has been in active charge of the local banks, has been elected a vice president of the Security bank, manager of the Glendale branch. William A. Goss has been elected an assistant secretary, and E. E. Osgood and E. L. Osborne, assistant cashiers. The advisory board, which will confer with the local officers in the consideration and approval of loans, includes W. W. Lee, Ed. M. Lee, W. E. Hewitt, M. P. Harrison, George T. Paine and H. S. Webb.

Tells of Merger
The meaning of the merger is that the Security bank, rated as one of the largest and best managed banks in the southwest, has come to Glendale, "said Vice President Kitterman. "The local institution loses nothing and gains, in addition to our local strength, the support of a greater banking institution."

"Service is the key note of modern banking. We have tried to make this as good a bank as any institution could be, and our place in the community indicates that we have succeeded within our limitations. Now we can do still more and give still more to the upbuilding of Glendale."

With this merger, the number of branches of the Security bank, besides the head office, is increased to sixteen, all but one of which are in Los Angeles county. The bank has total resources over $164,000,000; capital and surplus, $10,350,000; more than 230,000 depositors, and more than 1050 officers and employees. Other banks which became branches at the same time are the Eagle Rock bank, the Highland Park bank, and the First National and South Pasadena Savings bank of South Pasadena.

Fred E. Biles, who has been president of the Eagle Rock bank, will remain as manager of that branch.

MINERS PLEAD GUILTY
WELLSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 19. William White and John Oliver Page, two of the miners named in 215 indictments returned by the special grand jury, charging participation in the Cliftonville mine war, July 17, in which Sheriff Duval and seven strikers were killed, entered pleas of guilty today. White and Page were among 138 indicted upon charges of conspiracy to burn, destroy and injure.

HENRY C. BROWN JOKES OF DAYS PRIOR TO 1850

Ninety Years Young He Has Happy Reminiscences of School Days

Dayton to Cincinnati. "I well remember the first telegraph line," says "Grandpa." "Everyone called it a 'clothesline' and I remember the people coming from far and near to see it. They would say jokingly 'It's awful high to hang clothes on' and then more seriously say, 'but how do they send messages on it?' And those who thought they were wiser would say 'You just wait and watch and you'll see the messages go flying along the wires'."

It wasn't till he was twenty years old that "Grandpa" took his first train ride from Dayton to Greenville. "My father sent me up MALE inglybfe, s. vbgkq there to buy some horses to use in the fields," he says, "and another boy went with me and besides buying horses we had the time of our lives."

Tells of Wild Ride.
There were some mighty nice girls lived up that way and they had a party for us. It was in the spring and the roads were terribly muddy and the girl I was going to take to the party couldn't walk through the mud and her mother wouldn't let her ride with me on the colt I was riding so we didn't think we would get to the party. "Finally I thought of a scheme, the boy I was with got a clothesline and we fastened that to the colt's bit, put the girl on the colt's back and she rode over the muddy road while we boys walked on either side of the road and held to the clothesline."

"Of course dancing was looked down upon in those days but once in a while we danced the old French four. Then we had great fun at the singin' schools. The singing master sometimes taught the music by figures instead of by notes. Other masters used regular round notes and many of them used what we called buckwheat notes, because they were shaped like buckwheat grains. There was only one piano in that part of the country and it was owned by an old Dutchman who was a preacher and besides owning the only piano he had three nice girls and they used to be quite an attraction."

Borrowed Their Fire
"Yes, everything was different in those days, the women spun and wove and made all the clothes by hand and the men had to work harder in the fields, because they didn't have any of the modern machinery. Then you know we didn't have any matches and if you got up in the morning and saw a kid coming running down the road you knew he was coming to get some fire to start the stove to get breakfast."

When a young man, the spirit of adventure lured the young Henry Clay Brown and another young west and they made the trip to Iowa in a big wagon drawn by two horses. The roads were pretty bad, particularly in Indiana. They went to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where they lived for forty-seven years, and then he went to Lincoln, Neb., where he made his home for twenty years.

In addition to have been named for Henry Clay, "Grandpa" remembers having seen William Harrison and Martin Van Buren, presidents of the United States.

Seven children, twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren compose "Grandpa's" immediate family, while among his many friends are the members of the Glendale Business Women's club, of which his daughter, Dr. Brown is president. He is also a regular attendant at the Glendale Presbyterian church.

Edna Wallace Hopper at 61 Years, Young and Happy at T. D. & L.

She is here, the 61-year-old flapper, Wallace Hopper, appearing at the T. D. & L. theatre this afternoon and night for the last time. Her appearance here has literally startled Glendale. The T. D. & L. theatre was packed yesterday, and today, the doors again at all performances.

Miss Hopper, former wife of DeWolf Hopper, star of the Broadway show of years back, actually doesn't look a day over 19, and her activity and charming ways are in keeping with the "flapper" of today. For something so unusual, novel and utterly different from anything else ever presented in Glendale, and of special interest to the women, Edna Wallace Hopper is the star attraction de luxe. Those who have attended the performance state that to see her is to take a new lease on life, and she will tell you how to regain youthfulness and grace, the eternal thing sought after by the women of the world.

"The Man From Hell's River," the James Oliver Curwood story, is exciting, brim full of action, and is laid in the snow country—the northland.

On Sunday the T. D. & L. will offer as the feature Anita Stewart's film, "The Woman He Married," this star's latest vehicle to reach the screen, and also a Harold Lloyd comedy, "Wanted $5,000."

Flying Squadron to Hold Meetings Here

The flying squadron with headquarters at Indianapolis will visit Glendale this coming week. The Chamber of Commerce auditorium has been engaged for five meetings. Monday, August 20, at 3 p. m.; Tuesday, August 21, at 8 p. m.; Wednesday, August 22, at 8 p. m.; Thursday, August 23, at 8 p. m.; and Friday, August 24, at 8 p. m. The purpose is to increase interest in the Wright bill and a better enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. The speakers, five in number, are said to rank among the best in the country. Roy A. Haynes, federal prohibition commissioner, says of them, "I am confident that there is not a more helpful factor than the Flying Squadron in prohibition enforcement work."

Hon. Oliver W. Stewart, who succeeded the late ex-Governor Frank Hanly as president of the Flying Squadron, is the leading speaker, assisted by Dr. D. Leigh Colvin, Hon. Frank S. Regan, chalk talker; James H. Woertendyke and Rev. Norma C. Brown. Mrs. W. Q. Widdows of Glendale will lead the singing. The following citizens are assisting in the arrangements: W. P. Tower, Dr. R. W. Mottern, Prof. A. B. Heacock, Mrs. Ruby J. Smart, Mrs. Marie Yeoman and Dr. Jessie A. Russell.

BALL SCHEDULE SAVED!
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—President McCarthy of the Pacific Coast league, has announced that with the improvement of the rail situation, no changes would be made in games scheduled to be played in Salt Lake. It had been proposed to transfer games to coast cities in event of a rail tie-up.

SCHOOLS' OPENING FACES DELAY OF WEEK

New Intermediate Building Not Quite Ready; New Executive Offices

and another week was consumed in getting them rounded up again.

The administrative offices of the city school system are now located at 107 1/2 South Brand boulevard.

The new quarters consist of a suite of offices on the second floor in the newly remodeled building at this address. An office looking out on Brand boulevard will be occupied by Superintendent White. Adjoining this and separating it from the hall is a small office which will be occupied by Miss Murray Longley, Mr. White's private secretary.

Across the hall is another small office which will be occupied by Miss Vera McPherson, who handles the financial details for the school system. In this room also will be installed a telephone switchboard connecting all the schools.

Adjoining this office to the rear is a larger office which will be occupied by David R. Black, business agent for the district. This room has also been furnished for meetings of the board of trustees.

W. N. Bott Host to Sunday Schoolers

W. N. Bott of 108 East Elk street was host recently at an informal social afternoon enjoyed by his Sunday school class of the First Methodist church. Interesting entertainment was furnished by a collection of pictures brought by the guests, showing scenes of days gone by. The pictures were arranged together and the guests were to guess the identity of the persons and places in the pictures. There were also Bible guessing contests and other games. Among those taking leading parts in the games were Mrs. M. L. Booker, the blind member of the class. Bowls of white and pink roses decorated the Bott home. Late in the afternoon ice cream and cake were served the company. Mr. Bott's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Keller of Montrose, Mr. M. Simpson, Mrs. M. L. Booker, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Warner, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bolitho, Mrs. M. E. Van Orman, Mr. and Mrs. George Ward, Mrs. Mary Turner, Mrs. Anna Calhoun, Mrs. Mary Osborne, Mrs. West, Mrs. S. E. Logie.

Mrs. Bott assisted her husband in arranging the afternoon and the reception and entertainment of the guests.
